Building for Effective Development

Children and Books: a Worldwide Challenge was the theme of IBBY’s 28th Congress held in Basel in 2002 to celebrate the 50th birthday of the International Board on Books for Young People. The Jubilee Congress was chaired by IBBY’s long-time Executive Director, Leena Maissen, and was honoured by the presence of Her Imperial Highness Empress Michiko of Japan, Her Excellency Suzanne Mubarak of Egypt and Ms. Ruth Dreifuss, Minister of Home Affairs of the Swiss Confederation.

It became clear during the Jubilee Congress that IBBY was at a crossroads: Leena Maissen was retiring after more than 30 years of loyal service, the Membership Assembly was preoccupied with IBBY governance, policy and procedure, and IBBY was having some “growing pains” that needed to be addressed.

Structural changes were made at the IBBY Secretariat. A new Executive Director was appointed in September 2003 and for the first time, she was not based at the Secretariat. Kimete Basha set up an IBBY branch office in Brussels, Belgium. At the same time, the function of the Executive Assistant was extended to become a full-time position and to include more administrative tasks. Liz Page was appointed IBBY’s first Administrative Director and remained in Basel, Switzerland. The Executive Director focused on the overall management and co-ordination of IBBY’s regular activities, its special projects and the formulation of a strategic plan for IBBY’s growth and development; the Administrative Director ensured the smooth running of the Secretariat’s important daily work. The existing website (http://www.ibby.org) was reviewed and work on a new design and structure began. The new site will be completed before the end of 2004, but already it has been extended to include access to the IBBY National Sections’ Biennial Reports, Newsletters, Focus IBBY columns and additional information about the IBBY Awards and their sponsors. In addition and working in collaboration with the University of Innsbruck, IBBY’s Secretariat is developing an electronic database of IBBY’s extensive archives that should be available on the site in early 2005.

The Future of IBBY Subcommittee organized a survey of the IBBY membership to review IBBY’s aims and objectives in the longer term. The majority of the IBBY National Sections completed the questionnaire and, in so doing, provided a rare insight into the thinking of the membership, including ideas concerning future directions that IBBY could take. The recommendations that have emerged from this survey will form the basis of discussions in the Future of IBBY sessions at the Cape Town Congress. These deliberations will be a continuation of those begun in 2002 and we are hopeful that they will lead to a consensus about IBBY’s future development.

Following the recommendation of the members at the Basel General Assembly, a Membership Subcommittee examined the Tamer Institute’s application to establish an IBBY Section in Palestine. After six months of consultation and study that included a thorough review of IBBY’s Statutes and other relevant documentation, the Subcommittee presented its report and recommended the acceptance of an IBBY Section in Palestine. In April 2003, Palestine joined IBBY’s network which has grown in the last two years to include an unprecedented 68 National Sections.

We know that if IBBY is to continue to grow and thrive, its network must be strengthened and extended, particularly in Africa and Asia. One indication that IBBY has understood this is reflected in the choice of future IBBY congress sites. The 29th IBBY Congress will be held under the patronage of Graça Machel, wife of Nelson Mandela, and will be hosted in Cape Town by IBBY South Africa. Its theme is, “Books for Africa”. In 2006, the 30th IBBY Congress will be hosted by IBBY China in Beijing. There, the theme will be “Children’s Literature and Social Development”.

In April 2004, the Executive Committee accepted the proposal for the formation of committees for regional collaboration. National Sections may now form regional IBBY committees to encourage joint activities, promote a sense of shared purpose and develop projects that, by responding to local issues, may draw more regional and international sponsors.

This Biennial Report recognises the broad range of activities and efforts that have marked the last two years at IBBY. Much of the work has been dictated by the imperative to stay strong as a “family” while we grow, to be generous and supportive with each other as we develop, and to continue to fulfil IBBY’s mission in a changing world.

Peter Schneck
President of IBBY

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETINGS

5.1
Meetings
In 2002-2004, the Executive Committee scheduled five meetings as follows:
- Lucerne: October 2002 (old and new Executive Committee together)
- Bologna: April 2003
- Havana: October 2003
- Bologna: April 2004
- Cape Town: September 2004

Information about the deliberations and decisions of the Executive Committee has been passed on to the National Sections in circulars, news releases, newsletters, and via the Internet. Some of the main matters of business are listed below.

Topic: New Executive Director: Transition or Bringing Change
At its April 2003 meeting in Bologna, the IBBY Search Committee announced its decision to appoint Kimete Basha to succeed Leena Maisen in her function as Executive Director of IBBY. The new Executive Director was charged with the task of continuing efforts to develop and expand the work of the Secretariat while improving services to members and assuring the growth and impact of IBBY’s international network. The Executive Committee defined two key areas of responsibility for the Executive Director.
These were to develop an improved communications structure for IBBY and to define more effective fund raising practices. Kimete Basha set out a vision statement in which she identified and received approval for efforts in five priority areas: to improve service to members, to develop a strategy of alliance building, to incorporate new technologies, to develop existing projects and to ensure sustainable funding.

5.3 Topic: Communications and Comprehensive Information Policy
Improved electronic communication has become an indispensable tool of the IBBY network. Nearly all IBBY National Sections have an e-mail address; a growing number (35 in July 2004) have their own website. IBBY’s own website, http://www.ibby.org has been extended to include access to the IBBY National Sections’ Biennial Reports, Newsletters, Focus IBBY columns and more information about the IBBY Awards and their sponsors. A complete review of the existing website was undertaken. The new IBBY website will include two platforms: a public site with access to selected IBBY information and services and a members’ site that is password protected and specifically serves and informs the IBBY community. New features will include a Members’ Forum where IBBY documents are available online, an Archives library where digitized copies of all major IBBY publications are retrievable and an international IBBY calendar of events.

The possibility for an online exchange of information that could encourage and support collaboration among IBBY National Sections, is also part of the overall design and structure of the new site. A review of all IBBY print sources (Biennial Report, Address List, Newsletter) was undertaken at the same time.

5.4 Topic: Fund Raising: Strategic Objectives and Evolutionary Methods
Finances and fund raising are central issues in Executive Committee deliberations. During the past term, donations and in-kind contributions were received from a number of donors who are acknowledged separately in this report. As part of an overall policy to find sustainable funding, Kimete Basha defined a strategic plan for a long-term IBBY fund raising campaign. To this end, a Fund Raising Team was established (see members list above). The team is preparing an Information Booklet about IBBY’s work worldwide and has contributed to the revision of the Biennial Report Questionnaire to include a more comprehensive investigation of fund raising methods and objectives of National Sections. Meetings with representatives of the European Commission and fund raising consultants have taken place and will be pursued in the new reporting period. Potential new donors and sponsors have been identified and include business and corporate interests. Members of the Executive Committee have urged the need to consider new approaches to fund raising at IBBY.

5.5

The 2002 General Assembly was exceptional: it attracted many non-delegates who participated in the debate about Palestine membership and it highlighted the importance of Rules of Conduct for IBBY meetings that are both understood and applied. The Executive Committee discussed and formulated a set of guidelines for conduct of delegates to the General Assembly that address the need to differentiate between the right to speak and the right to vote at these meetings. It approved a set of Rules of Procedure that have been sent to all National Sections and, in particular to delegates to the 2004 General Assembly in Cape Town. Discussions in the Executive Committee focused on assuring the conditions for effective IBBY meetings while responding to membership demands for increased transparency and involvement in those meetings.

5.6

Topic: From IBBY Trust to IBBY Foundation
In April 2004 the Executive Committee decided to begin the process of transferring the assets of the IBBY Trust into an IBBY Foundation. The IBBY Trust served as a reserve of funds whose primary purpose was to support special projects and, if necessary, to respond to crisis situations. It is expected that an IBBY Foundation would continue in this purpose but would also become the conduit for more substantial, tax-free gifts from international donors. Since 1998, the Trust has received no donations but has benefited from the sound investments and transactions of IBBY’s financial advisor, Dr. Vincent Frank-Steiner to yield annual profits. The Executive Committee agreed that the total amount of Trust funds, with the exception of sums already allocated, would be donated to the IBBY Foundation as seed money. The final decision will be made at the Cape Town Executive Committee meetings pending the approval of the Foundation’s charter by the authorities of the Swiss Canton St. Gallen, where the Foundation would be located. The Executive Committee has ensured IBBY control of the Foundation by stipulating that the IBBY Executive Committee would maintain control of the Foundation’s Board and that voting Board members would be persons closely related to IBBY but who do not have a current function within IBBY.

Topic: Committees for Regional Collaboration
Increased regional co-operation and twinning among IBBY sections has been one of the positive developments during the past years. The biennial regional conferences in the United States, the meetings and joint publications of the Latin American and Nordic sections have continued with success. Some National Sections have established closer bilateral links: IBBY Netherlands has supported the Latvian Children’s Book Centre, IBBY Canada has continued its twinning partnership with IBBY Cuba and USBBY is supporting IBBY South Africa. In the last term IBBY Netherlands established closer ties with IBBY Uruguay and will support the section financially over the next three years. These examples of bilateral initiatives have encouraged innovative projects between the partners. The Executive Committee discussed these successes and sought ways to encourage and extend them wherever possible. In April 2004, it accepted the proposal for the formation of committees for regional collaboration. National Sections may now form regional IBBY committees to encourage joint activities, promote a sense of shared purpose and develop projects that, by responding to local issues, may draw more regional and international sponsors.

5.8 Topic: Bookbird

The financial situation of Bookbird Inc. continued to be a matter of concern and attention for the Executive Committee: it is imperative to increase the number of subscriptions of IBBY’s journal, Bookbird and to extend its readership either through online services or in print. The Executive Committee considered possible approaches, particularly the extended use of new information technologies and online subscription databases as a tool for an improved distribution of the journal and increased publicity. (See 10.5)

The new editorial team will address this challenge. In 2003 the Bookbird editors undertook a survey of the readership via a questionnaire included in the journal and a similar survey of the 43 Bookbird associate editors. Few responses were received from either group.

5.9 Topic: Members’ Services and Support

The concerns of the member countries are always important topics on the Executive Committee agenda as are the initiatives that are aimed at improving services to members. As well as responding to appeals for support through the Solidarity Fund from Argentina, Bolivia, Kazakhstan, Moldova, Panama, Ukraine and Venezuela, the Executive Committee has tried to define a long-term approach to improving member services and support. The website as a tool for exchange; a revised dues structure; improved communication between IBBY’s officers and members; member discounts and fund raising models for members are some of the responses that the Executive Committee has considered.
Topic: Congresses
The Executive Committee has discussed the organization of IBBY's Congresses in general and has been following the preparations of the Congresses up to 2010. Congress guidelines were revised. Jay Heale and his team have provided regular and informative progress reports about the 29th Congress in Cape Town. Preparations for the 30th IBBY congress in Beijing are well under way and Peter Schneck, accompanied by Urs Breitenstein and Liz Page, travelled to China in May 2004 to meet CBBY Congress organizers and sponsors.

5.11
Topic: Partnerships
Executive Committee discussions considered the importance of maintaining or developing contacts with national and international organizations or partner institutions. Executive Committee members encouraged a strategy of alliance that could help to improve IBBY’s international reputation (public relations), strengthen IBBY’s place and voice in the field of children’s books (advocacy) and provide access to funds and partners for projects (fund raising). Kimete Basha met traditional partners of IBBY to establish personal relationships; to assess the existing partnerships in terms of their potential for development; and to identify potential partners and contacts for the future. Extending these partnerships through project-based collaborations and information sharing would help to ensure that IBBY is recognized and engaged as a trusted partner and excellent source of expertise on quality children’s literature.

Topic: IBBY Dues Structure or Defining Objective, Measurable and Fair Criteria
The Executive Committee devoted a great deal of time and effort to examining the existing dues structure. Its aim was evaluate the established criteria for fairness and to suggest changes if necessary. The Dues subcommittee recommended that the existing criteria would be maintained but that the number of categories would increase to 8 from the 5 that now operate. If accepted, this change could be effective as of 2005 and would go a long way to ensuring that National Sections from developing regions of the world or from those confronting economic or political instability could be assessed as flexibly and fairly as possible. At the same time, no decrease would be incurred in IBBY’s income from membership fees and new members would be able to apply for starter membership discounts.

IBBY Awards: Reaching More Members
The Executive Committee considered the costs for National Sections of nominating candidates for the IBBY Awards and discussed ways to alleviate the financial burden that these may create. Engaging as many National Sections in as many IBBY activities as possible is a continuing priority and will remain a major target of future fund raising drives.

IBBY HONOUR LIST

The IBBY Honour List is a biennial selection of outstanding books that honours writers, illustrators and translators from IBBY member countries. Important considerations in selecting the Honour List titles are that the books are representative of the best in children’s literature and that the books are suitable for publication throughout the world. IBBY National Sections make the nominations. Each National Section may submit one title for each of the three categories: Writing, Illustration and Translation. In countries where children's book production is available in more than one language, National Sections may enter up to three titles for writing and translation in different languages.

The IBBY Honour List is one of IBBY’s most successful activities and one of the most effective ways to encourage international understanding through children’s books: it provides a context for discovery and exchange. Its popularity has risen greatly in recent years and has resulted in both an increase in the workload of the Secretariat and an increase in the costs of the accompanying catalogue. IBBY is grateful to its sponsors whose support has made it possible to meet these demands.

INTERNATIONAL CHILDREN’S BOOK DAY

On or around 2 April, Hans Christian Andersen’s birthday, International Children’s Book Day (ICBD) is celebrated to inspire a love of reading and to call attention to children’s books. Each year a different National Section has the opportunity to be the international sponsor of ICBD. It decides upon a theme and invites an author to write a message to the children of the world. At the same time, an illustrator is invited to design an accompanying poster. These materials are shared with other IBBY National Sections and used in different ways by them to promote reading. A large number of National Sections translate the poster and message. Many publicize the events in local media and in their own journals. Others use the materials in schools, at public events and in media presentations. The full text of the messages are available at the IBBY website and may be downloaded from there.
