IBBY
Honour List
2016
The IBBY Honour List is a biennial selection of outstanding, recently published books, honouring writers, illustrators and translators from IBBY member countries.

The 2016 Honour List comprises 173 nominations in 48 different languages from 57 countries. Selected for the 2016 list are 68 entries in the category of Writing; 52 in the category Illustration; and 53 in the category Translation. Included for the first time are three books in Armenian, one in Faroese, one in Greenlandic, and another in seSotho. After the drop in nominations for the 2014 Honour List, we are pleased to report that the 2016 IBBY Honour List includes the highest number of entries to date.

The titles are selected by the National Sections of IBBY, who are invited to nominate books characteristic of their country and suitable to recommend for publication in different languages. For countries with more than one national language, we accept multiple entries in the categories of writing and translation. However, for illustration IBBY currently continues to accept only one title from each National Section.

The Honour List has become one of the most important activities of IBBY. For many National Sections the selection process presents a welcome opportunity to study and review the production of children’s and juvenile books in their country on a continuing basis. Moreover, it offers a unique opportunity to the member countries, especially those with less well-known languages, to present their best books to an international audience. The exhibition of Honour List Books is shown at conferences and fairs around the world and the catalogue is translated into different languages and thus reaches more and more people. Each Honour List catalogue from 1980 onwards is also available through IBBY’s web page – making it even more accessible throughout the world. This activity is one of the most effective ways of furthering IBBY’s objective of encouraging international understanding and cooperation through children’s literature.

An IBBY Honour List has been published every two years since 1956 and the first Honour List was a selection of 15 entries from 12 countries. Originally it was called “The Hans Christian Andersen Honour List”, because the same jury that selected the recipients of the Hans Christian Andersen Awards identified the books selected for the Honour List. Until 1974 there was one general category for an Honour Book, i.e. “a good book”. That year the category for Illustration was added, soon followed by Translation in 1978. Thus, the base was widened for the National Sections who now took on the role of the selection jury. Although it was not until 1980 that the name IBBY Honour List was first used and the annotated catalogue that we see today was published.

Great care is taken to provide up-to-date information about the authors, illustrators, translators and their publishers, including the subject and language indexes. Even though space and funds are often limited, it is our wish to provide as much information as possible in a concise way and to promote access to the books.

We wish to sincerely thank our colleagues at the International Youth Library in Munich for their invaluable cooperation and support in preparing this catalogue. They have once again studied and classified the books, given valuable advice concerning bibliographical practice, transliteration of scripts that are not in Latin letters, as well as the very useful subject indexing.

Because this catalogue is written in English, we use standard British English for the spelling foreign names of people and places. Furthermore, we have respected the way in which the nominees themselves spell their names in Latin letters. As a general rule, we have written published book titles in italics and, whenever possible, added English translation in brackets. There are some exceptions when space or information is not available.

The IBBY Honour List 2016 is the result of excellent cooperation between the IBBY Secretariat, the participating National Sections who selected the entries and prepared the nominations, and the publishers of the nominated books who have donated seven copies of each title for exhibitions and the permanent collections. We wish to thank all of them very much indeed.

We gratefully acknowledge the support of the China Children’s Press and Publication Group (CCPPG) for sponsoring the printing and donating the paper for this catalogue.

The IBBY Honour List 2016 will be introduced and the diplomas presented at the 35th IBBY Congress in Auckland New Zealand, on Friday, 19 August 2016.

Writing
Children who want to be knights in armour, capricious gods, bears with never-ending problems, scholars who reason backwards, a lost Robinson on an island who writes a crazy letter, a monster, the Bagrub, who might or might not exist. The six stories of El Bagrub y otros cuentos de humor (i)lógico take place in a world where common sense does not exist. The stories have a subtle humour, playing with irony, paradox, enigma and intertextuality. With mathematical reasoning and questioning of logic, each of these stories creates a counter-story that leads to unexpected endings: castaways live in large cities. This is a complex book that rewards the active reader.

Eduardo Abel Gimenez was born near Buenos Aires in 1954. He is a musician, has created crossword puzzles, magazines and computer programmes. He began writing in childhood and his titles include, Un paseo por Camarjali (A walk through Camarjali, 2010), Monstruos por el borde del mundo (Monsters by the edge of the world, 2012), Quiero escarpar de Brigitte (I want to escape from Brigitte, 2007) and El viajero del tiempo llega al mundo del futuro (The time traveller enters the world of the future, 2012). He has also written the picture book, Como agua (Like water, 2009) with Cecilia Afonso Esteves and El hilo (The thread, 2011) with Claudia Degliuomini. With Douglas Wright he has written several editions and formats of the humorous book, Bichonario. Wright and Gimenez have also written books of puzzles or riddles to solve, including La caja mágica (The magic box, 2001) and the collection Laberinto de los juegos (Labyrinth games, 1994).

Dzerd gerazancutyun vat kaxard parav is a fairy tale is about an old witch, who is as bad as she is good. At the centre of the tale is the friendship between the witch and a crow. The rough but funny crow persuades the old witch to find the gold mines that supposedly belonged to witch’s grandmother. Instead of gold mines the witch finds yellow sand dunes. She gathers a handful of sand in memory of her grandmother and returns to the crow. But the crow is not interested in memories of the witch’s grandmother only in gold. The friendship between them is very important to the witch, so she tries to pacify the crow, hoping that the two remain friends.

Erazik Grigoryan was born in 1959, in Yerevan. A philologist she worked at the National Book Chamber and as chief editor of the newspaper, Independence. She was a correspondent for several medias and taught in schools and as a university lecturer. Grigoryan currently works at the State Language Inspectorate and at Shoghakat TV station as a screenwriter for children’s programmes. She is the author of another favourite story, Gna aprir heqiatum (Go live in the fairy tale, 2011). The book Dzerd gerazancutyun vat kaxard parav won the prize in the category “The best fairy tale” and “The choice of the nation” at the literary contest organized by Orange Armenia and the Armenian Book Centre in 2013.
When Dom dies in a car accident, fifteen-year-old Michael has to learn how to live without his older brother, whose easy charm could open any door. In this life-changing year, while his mother withdraws from the family, Michael, despite his strong sense of self, becomes somehow disconnected from his world. The story has an edgy feel as we experience Michael's neighbourhood, his girlfriend and the cars that zoom up and down the street. The book has a powerful sense of place, exploring the setting and cultures of the western suburbs of Sydney. The sharp, observant writing shows compassion and insight as it explores the themes of grief, loss, romance, culture and family life through a series of vignettes. Many light touches of humour contribute to making this compelling and accessible book a story about hope and finding a place in the community.

Felicity Castagna, although born in Australia spent her youth living and travelling around Asia and North America before moving to Parramatta, NSW, where she has worked as a teacher, arts worker and editor for the past ten years. Her collection of short stories Small Indiscretions (2011) was highly praised. The Incredible Here and Now was shortlisted for the NSW Premier's Literary Award and the Children's Book Council of Australia Award for Older Readers, and won the Prime Minister's Literary Award for Young Adult Fiction. She had previously won the Josephine Ulrick Literature Award and the Qantas Spirit of Youth Award. Felicity Castagna is completing a Doctorate in Creative Arts in the Writing and Society Research Centre at the University of Western Sydney.
Helen is married to Menelaus. One day she meets Alexandros, also known as Paris, the son of King Priam of Troy. Helen falls in love with Paris. She decides to leave her husband and child and go away with her new love. After she has gone her husband Menelaus seeks revenge and prepares to go to Troy with more than a thousand ships to look for Her. The story of Helen of Troy has inspired numerous writers. Award-winning author Michael De Cock has rewritten the story for a young modern audience. Passionate, intense and intriguing, it is a story of love and betrayal.

Michael De Cock (1972) was born in Mortsel, near Antwerp. He studied Romance languages, literature and acting. He has appeared in several series for television, though is best known as a stage actor, producer and director. He launched the theatre group Droomedaris-Rex and wrote several theatre pieces for both adults and children. This led to the publication of a book, Op een onzeker uur (At an uncertain time, 2004) based on interviews with refugees and asylum-seekers, which in turn led to two more theatre productions. In 2006, he was appointed director of the theatre group ’t Arsenaal in Mechelen and in September 2016 he will become the new director of the Royal Flemish Theatre in Brussels. He won the Flanders’ Boekenleeuw prize for children’s literature with Veldslaag om een hart in 2015.

The story is a letter by Maturin to his late wife, Adélaïde. Life was good for them, full of joy, journeys and children. The day Adélaïde made a soup with roses, Maturin began to worry. Slowly the sickness took over Adélaïde: she forgot things, told strange stories. Maturin tried to make her days as smooth as possible, but it was not always easy. Talking to children about an illness like Alzheimer is also never easy. Geneviève Casterman uses her own life to illustrate the progression of Adélaïde’s illness, using two kangaroos to tell the story of her family. The story is told with delicacy and decency. The illustrations, using coloured pencils and pastel colours, follow the path of Adélaïde’s fading memory.

Born in Brussels in 1958, Geneviève Casterman now lives in Blamont. She studied to become a schoolteacher and then, after some years of teaching she began illustration studies at the Institut Saint-Luc in Brussels. She is now a teacher at the Ecole des recherché graphiques and writes for many pedagogical magazines. She likes to work with children and develop their creativity. In her own illustrations, she works with watercolour, coloured pencils or etching. Her most recent books include L’une danse l’autre pas (One is dancing, the other not, 2011), Cyrus, le chien flottant (Cyrus, the floating dog, 2013) and 100(0) moments de dessin (100(0) moments of drawing, 2014). Au revoir, Adélaïde received the Prix Libbylit in 2015.
The adventure starts with Uncle Lalo’s arrival, an amusing character in love with the secrets of outer space. Uncle Lalo teaches Maxi, and all his family that are interested, to see the wonders of outer space using a little tube made with their hands and a telescope. When Lalo refers to the Fried Egg Nebula, Maxi, in a surprising and fantastic way, finds himself learning various cooking secrets from Gusta Pá, a spaceship cook. In this way, the connections between astronomy and gastronomy – between the immense Fried Egg Nebula and the exquisite egg fried Nebula style – set the stage for emotive and tasty experiences full of friendship and love.

Carlos Vera Vargas was born in 1953 in Cochabamba. He is a Professor of language and literature and is also a psychologist. He has written numerous books for children and adolescents and has received many awards from the Ministry of Culture including the first prize for a youth novel in 2009 for El vuelo del murciélago Barba de pétalo (The flight of the petal’s beard bat) and first prize for a children’s novel in 2015 for Dos gatos mojados y el caso del paraguas (Two wet cats and the umbrella case). Un exquisito huevo astronómicamente frito won the first prize for a youth novel, given by the Ministry of Culture in 2015.

Orie is a book about everyday life and the passing of time. The dainty and sophisticated artwork unites the text with the illustrations and invites readers to follow the little girl Orie, as she takes her small steps. The trips with her parents, the noises and smells of the city, the silences, the small joys and, especially, the pace of life, all these demonstrate the passage of time. This wonderful book reaches children, young people and adults in many ways.

Lúcia Hiratsuka learned to read Japanese books illustrated books, ehons, with her grandfather. She believes that through these books her desire for writing and illustrating was born. She studied at the Fine Arts College in São Paulo and began illustrating. In 1998, she won a scholarship to the University of Education in Fukuoka, Japan, where she chose the ehon as her research theme. She returned and began to recount and illustrate Japanese tales and legends she had listened to when she was a child, looking for inspiration in the Japanese compositions and the sumie technique. In 2015, the book Orie won the Best for the Child FNLIJ Award and was chosen as one of the 30 best books for children by the magazine Crescer. She also won the FNLIJ Highly Recommended Honours for the books: Terra costurada com água (2015), Tantos cantos (Many corners, 2014), Senda florida (Blossomed pathway, 2013), Antes da chuva (Before the rain, 2012), A visita (The visit, 2012), O violoncelista (The cellist, 2010) and Contos da montanha (Mountain tales, 2006).
While his parents are busy buying clothes for his sister, Kantol watches pahi, the traditional street performance. There he meets a dancing monkey and starts to dance with the monkey. Suddenly, a very loud sound scares the crowd and the monkey away. Kantol helps the pahi group to find the monkey. He finds the monkey at the cloth shop and gives it back to the pahi group, but realizes that he is now lost. While trying to find his way back to his parents and sister, Kantol is hit by a cyclo, or tricycle taxi and is hurt. The cyclo driver listens to Kantol’s story and promises to take him back to his family. After a long ride, they have no luck until Kantol recalls his grandmother’s words – if you get lost, go and visit the police station. Finally, Kantol is reunited with his family at the police station.

Born in 1944, Pich Proeung is a teacher, author and publisher at Domrei Sor. She is passionate about writing children’s books in the Khmer language and so far she has authored more than 30 titles. She has actively participated in various workshops and trainings organized by Sipar and Room To Read Cambodia. She has also represented Cambodia at international events such as the children’s book fair in Montreuil, France in 2005 and at the book fair in Gothenburg, Sweden, where she was awarded the Svenska Barnboksakademins Eldsjälspris, (Swedish Academy for Children’s Books – Enthusiast Prize) in 2009. Her other publications are The Rat & The Hermit (2010), Boule Boule (2010) and The Little Berry (2010).
Niños is dedicated to the children who died during the military dictatorship in Chile. A series of thirty-four delicate poems, it is a book that confronts the reader with the force of reality. Despite this, the author, in loving words, creates an intimate space to celebrate the beauty of life in contrast to the horrors of death. Each lost child is a character in a poem, each is given an identity and a personal history and each poem becomes an extension of their childhood innocence that was interrupted.

María José Ferrada was born in Temuco in 1977. She is a journalist with a Masters in Asian Studies from the University of Barcelona. Her first book was published in 2005 and since then her books have received recognition and several prizes both in Chile and abroad. Some of her other important works include El idioma Secreto (The secret language, 2013), Geografía de Maquinas (Geography machines, 2013) and Notas al Margen (Margin notes, 2013).

This book is the second in the seven-book series of Dingding and Dangdang, two brothers who have Down syndrome and live in a small rural Chinese village. One day seven-year-old Dangdang goes missing in a crowded market. After waiting five days for him to return, his older brother Dingding sets out in search of him. Dingding gets lost and wanders through thick fog in a distant dreamlike village. Luckily, the kind Mr and Mrs Pan take him into their home, sheltering him from wintry winds. To help him in his search for his brother, they offer him a job, herding goats. Dingding and the goats quickly become friends and he develops a special friendship with the Blind Goat. Told almost as a fable using magic realist elements, this series illuminates the difficulties and possibilities facing Down syndrome children in today’s China.

Cao Wenxuan is a literature professor and doctoral supervisor at Peking University. As one of the best-known children’s authors in China, he has received more than 40 awards and nominations, including the 2016 Hans Christian Andersen Author Award, the National Book Award of China, the National Excellent Children’s Literature Award and the Soong Ching Ling Children’s Literature Award. Many of his works have been translated into English, French, Japanese and Korean. His important works include Cao Fang Zi (The straw house, nine volumes, 1997), Qing Tong Kui Hua (Bronze and Sunflower, 2005) and Da Wang Shu (King book, five volumes, 2007) as well as the other books in the Dingding and Dangdang series. The first book in the series was included in the 2015 IBBY Selection of Books for Young People With Disabilities.
Clara is a girl with a lot of imagination and as she walks by the market stands with her mother every Saturday, she imagines many vivid stories about everyone that crosses her path. At the same time, Clara tells readers about her liking school, her tooth collection and other features that make her different from what you would expect from a girl her age. She also mentions her difficulty when reading: she skips letters and whole words. The text is poetic, yet simple. The narrative threads of text and illustration intertwine and generate a third story that further expands the narrative: mice not only collect teeth, but also collect the letters Clara skips when reading. The story shows the perspective of a small girl, her creativeness and innocence and at the same time gently addresses a difficulty many children face when they start reading.

Triunfo Arciniegas has a Masters degree in literature and translation. Before taking up writing, photography and painting, he was a blacksmith, shoemaker, bouncer, gas station attendant, bookseller, teacher and professor. For his children's books and plays, he has been awarded the VII Enka Children's Literature Award, and the National Children's Playwright Award, among others. His children's stories include: La media perdida (The lost sock, 1989), Las batallas de Rosalino (Rosalino's battles, 1989), and El árbol triste (The sad tree, 2008). His plays for children include: Después de la lluvia (After the rain, 1997), El pirata de la pata de palo (The pirate with a peg leg, 2000), La vaca de Octavio (Octavio's cow, 1997), La araña sube al monte (The spider climbs up the mountain, 1997), and Mambrú se fue a la Guerra (Mambrú went to war, 1997).

Pauline P. is one of the most beloved literary characters in contemporary Croatian children's literature. This is the fifth book in the series of novels about Pauline and her friends. In this book Pauline travels to a small coastal village with her teacher and her friends. Pauline’s witty notes describe the adventures of urban ten-year-olds in a new environment. The novel depicts five days of children’s adventures without parental supervision, favourite toys and schoolbooks. Instead of the usual seaside activities such as swimming and diving, the children acquire a lot of practical life skills and improve their sense of responsibility and confidence. This is a witty and exciting coming-of-age novel.

Sanja Polak was born in 1968 in Zagreb. She has been writing for children since 1995 and many of her stories have been published in children’s magazines and broadcast on Croatian radio and TV. She has written nine children’s books so far, five in the Pauline P. series, as well as Petrica Pricalica, (Petrica the chatterbox, 2005), Mali Jan ima plan (Little Ian has a plan, 2008), Mala Ema straha nema (Fearless little Emma, 2014), and Dnevnik dobrih andela (The diary of good angels, 2010). She is one of the most popular Croatian contemporary children’s book authors today and has been awarded many national literary awards and honours. Her novels Dnevnik Pauline P. and Drugi dnevnik Pauline P. have also been adapted for theatre and performed in the Žarptica theatre in Zagreb.
Nicholas loves visiting the zoo and Elli always waits for him to show up. Taking five big steps, she approaches him and takes the peanuts from his hand with her gigantic trunk. One day though, Elli is not going near Nicholas. She is standing still in a corner with wet eyes facing the ground. In his attempt to find out what is happening to his friend, Nicholas will learn things that will change him forever.

Marina Michaelidou-Kadi was born and grew up in Cyprus. She studied psychology at Boston University and natural resources management at Cornell University, USA. Since 2002 she has lived in Nicosia, where she writes stories for children about social and environmental issues. Her book To kokkino phorema tes Sabel (Sabel’s red dress, 2014), about a young refugee girl, was selected for the 2014 White Ravens catalogue and was shortlisted for the Greek IBBY book awards. Her book Semeli’s smile, 2011 received the children’s book award from the Cyprus Bibliographical Society. In 2015 she co-authored the first bilingual (Greek and Turkish) children’s book in Cyprus, From the earth to the stars. O Nikolas ka i Elli received the Cyprus Literature Award for Young Children and was shortlisted for the Greek IBBY book awards.

This modern tale is based on verbal and situational humour and the unlimited possibilities of narratives. Those who were able to write had work to be done: “I will predict illness and misery to children! When ruling, I will do harm to my nation.” That is how things go in an educational institute called House of InCorrection. Everyone who is reluctant to do wrong to other human beings – especially to other children – will be “corrected” and learn how to injure. Fortunately enough, the pupils try to resist their horrific teacher. Their task is not so easy and they will have to face a much bigger danger than a corrupted pedagogue. Pohoršovna is full of flesh-and-blood figures, witty dialogues, humour, irony and unbridled fantasy that will please both children and adults.

Daniela Fischerová (born in Prague in 1948) is the author of plays for theatre, radio and television, screenplays for animated cartoon serials, such as Pohádky z Větrné Lhoty (Tales of Windy Village), novels, such as Happy End published in 2005, as well as several books for children and young people. She graduated from the Film and TV School of the Academy of Performing Arts in Prague, in the field of screenwriting and script editing. Since 1973 she has worked freelance, writing fairy tales, short stories, poetry and prose and detective stories. Her most recent published book is a collection of nonsense rhymes for children called Tetovaná teta (Tattooed Aunt, 2015) illustrated by Jaromír Plachý.
When they pull us out of the water, we are still intertwined. I don’t know how long we’ve been in the water, can’t tell, your sense of time sort of gets blurred. A week. Maybe two. I don’t know. The coroner can’t pinpoint it either. He wants permission to remove the handcuffs. He keeps saying that it’s damn difficult handling two corpses joined in that way, especially since we’re so bloated. This is the opening of the story: two corpses are pulled out of the water. We quickly learn that it is a couple that have committed suicide. What follows is the story about how Liam and Louise could even get this far. Dig og mig ved daggry is not only about coincidences, misunderstandings, betrayal and forgiveness, but also about loving with such passion and meaning that it is worth dying for.

With a dynamic and direct way of expression, Sanne Munk Jensen (born 1979) has become a significant voice within Danish youth literature. Her debut novel, Nærmest hinanden (Closest to each other, 2002), received good reviews but it was her second novel, En dag skinner solen også på en hunds røv (Some day the sun will also shine on a dog’s ass, 2007), that earned her commercial breakthrough as well as praise and prizes from readers and critics alike. Glenn Ringtved (born 1968) has written more than 30 books for children since his debut in 1995 including picture books for smaller children, chapter books for middle grade and contemporary realistic novels for young adults. Apart from Dig og mig ved daggry, his most important works are the Dreamteam series and the youth novels En god dreng (A good boy, 2013) and Kings of Jutland (2014).

Search for identity, sexuality

HOMO sapienne follows the lives of five young people in the “little big city” of Nuuk, the capital of Greenland. Each one is given a chapter in the book to narrate their feelings and experiences at a time in their lives when they all experience profound changes. Through the five voices, the novel expresses different views on identity, sexuality and on being young in a modern Greenland where taboos are slowly breaking down.

Niviaq Korneliussen was born in 1990 in Nuuk and grew up in Nanortalik, a small town in Southern Greenland. Niviaq studied social science at Nuuk University before enrolling as a student at the psychology department at Aarhus University in Denmark. In 2012, she was one of the winners of the short story competition Allatta! for young unpublished authors in Greenland. HOMO sapienne is her first novel; she originally wrote it in Greenlandic before rewriting it in Danish. It was highly praised in the media and has since then nominated for the Politiken Literature Award as well as for the Nordic Council Literature Award.

Coping with life, short stories

Blanca a secas y otras historias is a collection of short stories set in both urban and rural contemporary Ecuador. The stories portray the tender bonds that exist between the characters and their environment. They are about life in the midst of difficult circumstances: social injustice, economic hardship, illness and natural catastrophe. The stories highlight how children and animals endure and they give a positive twist to these difficult situations.

Ana Carlota González is a Chilean-born writer and librarian who has lived most of her life in Ecuador. Her first book was published in 2006, since then she has written more than 20 children’s books, many of them have received national and international recognition. She believes that reading provides opportunities to open new horizons, to enrich children’s lives, and to strengthen bonds between people. In 2006 and 2011 she won the National Award Dario Guevara Mayorga given by the Municipality of Quito, and her books have been included in the list of the Banco del Libro de Venezuela and the White Ravens catalogue of the International Youth Library in 2011.
A fire rages through the popular marketplace around the Cairo Citadel. The street vendors’ livelihoods are threatened and their future lies in the balance. Mokhtar and his sister have many reasons to want to rebuild the market before dawn breaks, when the authorities will remove the squatters and reclaim the area. How can they convince the community not to surrender to their fatalism and work with them on such a short deadline? How will they find the resources to rebuild? What secrets will this night uncover?

Yacoub El Sharouni, one of the pioneers of children’s literature in Egypt and the Arab world, was born in Cairo in 1931. He studied law and political economics at Cairo University and in 1968 studied children’s literature in France. He returned to Egypt to resume a post as a state official and began his writing career. A prolific author, with some 400 books for children and many awards, he is most known for his classic collection The Best Egyptian Folk Stories, which won the 2002 New Horizons Award of the Bologna Book Fair. Yacoub El Sharouni has retold ancient Egyptian, national and international folklore to several generations of Egyptian children, as well as produced and supervised many academic works of non-fiction on the subject of children and literacy.

The story takes the reader to an old apartment building in a small town and opens up the world of people with their cats and dogs who inhabit this familiar yet strange place. There is a boy who wishes for a dog and there is a dog that seems to be lost. Gibraltari Laevakoerte Ühing is a humorous heart warming story of friendship between a dog named Saku and his new friend Anton and their life in this small town.

Juhani Püttsepp (1964) is a writer and a biologist. He has worked as a journalist, teacher and documentary filmmaker. He started to write for children while working as a director of Tartu Children’s Theatre in 1993. Since then he has written nearly twenty books for children, including Kunstnik Johannese üpris kummalised lood (Extraordinary stories of Painter Johannes, 1994), Lauajupi Madonna (The wooden Madonna, 2009), and Väikese hundi lood (Stories of little wolf, 2009).
Paha puuska is a novel in verse for young adults, which deals with the very difficult subject of suicide. 13-year-old Lauri throws himself under a train on the first day of junior high school. The story is told by Lauri's sister, Hilla, who is a year older than her brother. Hilla goes through many emotions as she tries to find a reason for her brother's incomprehensible act. Can there be only one reason for a young person's suicide after all? Or was it caused by a moment of anger? Hilla frequently visits Lauri's favourite stone in the forest and talks to her brother. She tries to understand and recover from what happened. Ten years later she takes her firstborn to her brother's favourite spot to listen to the sounds of the forest. The novel's short verses are full of feelings of pain and small glimpses of hope. This skilfully told story is touching and yet comforting.

Kirsti Kuronen was born in 1966 in Lempäälä. She has a Bachelor's degree in Finnish literature, media culture and women's studies and has worked, among other things, as a camera operator for the Finnish Broadcasting Company. She has written about 20 novels and poetry books, mainly for children and young people. Her first book for pre-teens, Vili Voipio (Vili Voipio) was published in 2004. Omenapuu laulaa (The apple tree is singing, 2012) and 4×100 (Four times hundred, 2013) are novels for young people. Her book Piruettiystävyyys (Pirouette friendship, 2010) was awarded the Topelius Award in 2011.

Auringon tytär = Daughter of the Sun = Beaivvi Nieida

The book includes five Sámi fairy tales. The illustrations by twelve illustrators were made during a fantasy illustration course at the Faculty of Art and Design at the Lapland University during 2010/2011. In these fairy tales, the lifeless turn into living magic creatures that feel and behave like human beings: the daughter of the Sun comes down to the earth to teach people beauty, handiwork and hunting skills; the daughter of the Moon falls in love with a Northern Light boy; a boy picking cloudberries falls in love with a rich gnome girl; how it is bad to meet the Christmas wanderers; and a golden-antlered deer escapes the god of thunder.

Elina Helander-Renvall is a Sámi scholar who works as senior scientist and director at the Arctic Centre, University of Lapland in Rovaniemi. She is also the director of the Arctic Indigenous Peoples and Sámi Research Office at the same institute. In addition to research on Sámi culture, subsistence activities and traditional law, she has investigated traditional ecological knowledge among the indigenous people of the Arctic. Elina Helander-Renvall is interested in Sami storytelling, their worldview and their relation to nature.
Mother’s friend Bodil has a broken heart. Vesta-Linnea tries to imagine the small pieces of a broken heart and about how she sometimes feels sad, too. But then when Mother treats her, her sisters and Bodil to almond pancakes with blueberries in the tree house, Vesta-Linnea is deliriously happy. Sometimes life is gloomy; sometimes it is shining bright. The book is a delicate description about sadness and depression written in a neutral, generous and accepting way without overwhelming the reader. The Vesta-Linnea books are all about everyday family life, including conflicts and difficult situations.

Tove Appelgren (born 1969) studied literature, journalism and directing and is currently an author and theatre director. Vesta-Linnea i månskenet is her fifth book about Vesta-Linnea. The other books in the series, which have all been illustrated by Salla Savolainen and translated into English, are: Vesta-Linnea och monster-mamman (Vesta Linnea and Monster Mom, 2001), Sov nu, Vesta-Linnea! (It’s Time to Sleep Now, Vesta-Linnea, 2003) Vesta-Linnéa och gosnosen (Vesta-Linnea and the Velvet-Nosed Puppy, 2005) and Vesta-Linnéas svartaste tanke (Vesta-Linnea’s Darkest Thought, 2008). Tove Appelgren has also written other books for children, lyrics for children’s music and stage plays, as well as taught directing and dramatization. She was nominated for Astrid Lindgren Memorial Award in 2009, the Finlandia Junior Award in 2008 and received recognition from Svenska litteratursällskapet i Finland in 2009.

Clémentine Beauvais, born in 1989, is currently a post-graduate researcher in Education at Cambridge University in the UK. Active on social media and blogs, she is a modern writer who looks acutely and perceptively at her generation’s social relationships. She has published more than 15 books and also writes in English. Yennenga, the Dagomba Princess Yennenga, the Dagomba Princess is the story of the matriarch of the Dagomba, Nanumba, and Mamprusi people of northern Ghana and the Mossi people of Burkina Faso. Yennenga was a beautiful girl and a very good warrior. Her father became very proud of her and made her a battalion commander. When she was fourteen she started to help her father in battle and because of her skill her father refused to give her away in marriage. Yennenga protested and she was locked up in prison. One of the courtiers helped her to escape from prison and ran away with her. During her escape her companion was killed and Yennenga rode on until she collapsed under a baobab tree. She was found by a Mossi man who took her home and later married her. They had a son, Ouedrago, who later founded the Mossi Kingdom, which became part of modern day Burkina Faso. Yennenga is honoured in many ways in Burkina Faso.

Eric Bawah is a journalist for the Daily Guide, a popular newspaper in Ghana. He is also a political commentator for the New Patriotic Party, which is the opposition party in Ghana. He is from northern Ghana and is happy to be able to share the legend about his ancestors in a book for children.

Jenseits der blauen Grenze

Jenseits der blauen Grenze is set in the final years of East Germany. Due to their non-conformist behaviour, Hannah and her friend Andreas have lost the chance to lead a life of their own choosing. Without high school degrees and a chance to study, they are doomed to mind-deadening work in a diesel motor factory. So they choose instead to flee fifty kilometres across the Baltic Sea to the West. Hanna is a talented competition swimmer and is sure she can help Andreas keep up with her. The reader is immediately drawn into a fascinating escape story from the very first sentence. Intense descriptions of cold, darkness and disorientation accentuate the physical feelings of cramps, shortness of breath, hunger and exhaustion. During the swim Hanna reflects on the events that led to their escape. Her flashbacks give a realistic portrayal of growing up in East Germany, torn between resignation and rebellion. Though fraught with tension, many episodes in the book are described with wordplay and situation comedy. This narrative, which for today’s youth can be considered a historical novel, is highly readable and full of suspense until the very end.

Born in 1971, Dorit Linke grew up in Rostock, at that time in East Germany. She attended an academic high school and was a competitive swimmer and lifeguard. Well aware of the political changes taking place at the end of the 1980s, she turned 18 just as the Berlin Wall fell. Today she lives and works in Berlin. Jenseits der blauen Grenze is her first novel and was shortlisted for the 2015 Deutscher Jugendliteraturpreis. Her second book, Fett Kohle (Mega-bucks), was published in 2015.
This is the story of Badboy, a child who is ordinary and special at the same time – like so many children. Badboy grows up in a poor barrio, sad and grey like his old coat, which is someone’s castoff and too big for him. They call him a bad boy, but he is only the poorest and unhappiest of all boys. One day he decides to live up to his name, since this seems to be what everyone expects from him. Well, not quite everyone ... This is a story inspired by the true account of El Sistema and the world-famous Bolivar Orchestra of Venezuela. It is a story about faith in humanity and human beings and about the power of art and culture against poverty and social exclusion.

Angeliki Darlasi was born in Athens in 1973. She studied theatre at Athens University and performance arts at London’s Central School of Speech and Drama. She is a writer, playwright and tutor for adults and children in creative writing and theatre. She has been distinguished many times as a playwright in national competitions. Her second novel Tote pu kryp enan angelo (When we hid an angel, 2009) was awarded with the IBBY Greece Award for Youth Literature, and was included in the White Ravens selection 2010. Her theatre version of the novel was awarded with the Greek National Prize for Children/Youth Theatre. Her illustrated book The tree that had wings, 2010 and the youth novel My name is ... Cloud, 2012 were both shortlisted for Greek literature awards. To paliopedo received the IBBY Greece award for the text and illustrations.

This is the first biography of Martin Luther King to be written in Creole. His childhood, with its prejudices and injustices, is presented in a realistic but positive way. Haitian children can easily relate to the story because in the book, King is often compared to the Haitian hero, Toussaint Louverture.

Joslin Twouyo is the pen name of Jocelyne Trouillot. She has published more than 75 titles for children. Some are parts of a series (Gougou, Fifi, Jennjan) and some are for very young children. She is a strong advocate of Creole, which is the language of all Haitian children – French is spoken by only 10% of the population. She has been awarded the title of Creole Academic by the newly formed Haitian Creole Academy. Her stories also address the issue of girls in society: Matmwazel Titi, Miss Titi, Ala yon bel ti wob, (What a nice dress!) Toya, Betsi, Yo bay kanè (The report card). She has written stories about earthquakes Goudougoudou (2010) and hurricanes, as well as stories about children with special needs Ti Pouch, Sipriz (Surprise, 2015). Her title 126 Lèt damou was selected for the 2012 IBBY Honour List.
Little Nolo Dlo lives in a house made of cardboard. The family is poor and things get worse when his father dies. Nolo Dlo decides to help the family by selling small bags of water to people in the streets. The cars pass by very fast, making it hard to stop the drivers and offer your merchandise. But with the help of a few friends, Nolo Dlo has been able to learn a few tricks. Nonetheless, things are hard and Nolo Dlo has a strange dream where he was immersed in water. Once awake, he realises he was soaked by Madam Rain.

Petite Comtesse was the pen name of Charlotte Cadet Voltaire who was an artist and a teacher. Sadly she perished in the large earthquake that destroyed the capital in 2010. She was sensitive to social issues such as life in Port-au-Prince slums. Le petit vendeur d’eau de Port-au-Prince was published posthumously intended to show that even when life is miserable, children like Nolo Dlo make the best of it by being creative and helpful.

Milyen madár is a book of poems about life. On the one hand, it offers an inventory of the world of children: their bodies, the objects they own, the things they like or dislike, their fictitious and real environment, their families and activities. On the other, it is a depiction, through surprising metaphors, of a very special universe that exists in the fantasies of children, as well as those grownups who have retained their childhood fantasies. The poems ask such questions as: who stole spring this year, which bird took it to the South, and on which bird’s wing sneaked the winter back in from the North, with icy teeth who bit the buds from the branches of bushes, on which loft did he hide the snowdrop, the daffodil, and where should we hide from winter, when we’ve changed our coats, put the caps in drawers, lost our scarves long ago, which northern bird brought this late snow back to us, who will warm us up when dad has gone away on a long trip.

Árpád Kollár, born in Zenta (Senta), Yugoslavia in 1980. He is currently the President of the Hungarian Young Writers’ Association and publishes literary translations from South Slavic languages as well as studies, critiques, essays and three poetry collections. His poetry collections include Például a madzag (For example the string, 2005), which received several awards given to first-time authors, Nem Szarajevóban (Not in Sarajevo, 2010) and Milyen madár, which received the award of Children’s Book of the Year in Hungary.
Kari is summoned when the final member of the Dragon Task Force fails to kill the country’s last remaining dragon. He is to be the King’s wizard but first has to tackle three tasks to prove his ability. The problem is that he has no idea how to do magic. Meanwhile, an invasion by Queen Skuld, said to be both cruel and skilled in sorcery, is imminent. Síðasti Galdrameistarinn is an exciting fairy tale about bravery and friendship, deceit and betrayal, drawn from the inexhaustible fountain of stories found in medieval Norse literature.

Ármann Jakobsson, born in 1970, is a Professor of Medieval Literature at the University of Iceland. He has written articles about social and cultural issues in newspapers and magazines as well as in-depth pieces on Icelandic literature. He is the author of diverse books of fiction, non-fiction and poetry, including the critically acclaimed novels Vonarstræti (2008) and Glaðísir (2011). Síðasti Galdrameistarinn is his first novel for children. He is the recipient of the 2008 Dag Strömbäck academic award, as well as the 2009 Icelandic Science and Technology Policy Council’s Motivation Award for Young Scholars.

A mysterious old man spied on Beno’s house. Even more mysterious was that he jumped over the fence and disappeared when Beno went to talk to him. Beno followed his trail and found out that the old man had gone missing after a fight with a scar-faced man. The only thing left in the mysterious man’s empty house was a scrap of an old letter written in Chinese. The old letter revealed the history of their town and a dangerous adventure. Misteri Kota Tua gives young readers not only a thrilling adventure story, but also teaches much about the town where the story takes place: its festivals, its culture and its unique population of the Chinese Benteng people.

Yovita Siswati was born in Tangerang in 1976. She graduated from the University of Gadjah Mada in Yogyakarta with a degree in Architecture, but never worked as an architect but pursued a career in finance. After 15 years in the world of numbers, she discovered a passion for writing stories for young children and to date has published 30 books for children. She has combined her love of history and adventure into historical adventure stories. Misteri Kota Tua was her first novel for children. After that she wrote Misteri Gua Purba (The mystery of the ancient cave, 2014), Misteri Kampung Hitam (The mystery of the black village, 2014), Misteri Kerajaan Kuno (The mystery of the old kingdom, 2015), Misteri Kota Lautan Api (The mystery of the city on fire, 2015) and her latest novel Misteri Gurindam Makam Kuno (The mystery of the ancient’s couplets, 2016). Yovita Siswati writes stories that she hopes children will enjoy and learn the history of their own country along the way.
In an ancient myth, Iran suffers defeat in battle and must hand over territory to its enemy. The enemy, in order to further humiliate the people, decides that the arrow of an archer will determine the new border. In the myth, Arash, a champion archer, shoots the arrow with all his life and soul. The arrow sails far into the distance and the lost lands are regained. In this retelling, Arash is not a champion but an ordinary man who voluntarily gives up his life to shoot the arrow in order to save Iran. This Arash is a storyteller who recites poetry and tells stories to children. His storytelling is so wondrous that it can restore peace, bring back the lost lands and make Iran green and prosperous again. This is a story in praise of storytellers and their stories.

Marjan Fooladvand was born in Tehran and has a Master’s degree in Persian literature from Allameh Tabatabai University. She has been writing for children since 2000 and with the publication of Dastan-e Tuti va Bazargan (Story of the parrot and the merchant, 2004) her career in the retelling of Iranian literary classics for children was launched. Her adaptations combine archaic turns of phrase with a modern and human perspective that enable today’s children to enjoy them with as much interest as previous generations. Marjan Fooladvand has adapted classics by Rumi, Ferdowsi and Iranian myths as well as biographies and fiction for children. She has published ten children’s books, two collections of stories for adults and numerous specialized articles. Since 2011, she has been the editor of the magazine Children’s Hamshahri.

Caesar is twelve years old and comes from a wealthy family in Brianza in northern Italy. His father runs a furniture company and his mother is a surgeon. On the day of his birthday, however, there are two cracks in this seemingly perfect picture. The first: a few of the guests at the party are children of the employees of his father’s company, employees that may soon lose their jobs. The second: his grandfather Richard has a heart attack. When his grandfather is carried to the ambulance Caesar sees a tattoo on his shoulder: a man with a beard, not Jesus, but Ernesto Che Guevara. His grandfather will have a lot to explain.

Luigi Garlando graduated in Arts in Milan and began writing comics and then writing for La Gazzetta dello Sport, the most important daily sports newspaper in Italy. His children’s books deal with current and social issues and sports. In 2005 he won the children’s literature award from Fondazione Cassa di Risparmio di Cento for Mio papà scrive la guerra (My dad writes the war, 2005). In 2008, he received a sports award for Ora sei una stella, Il romanzo dell’Inter (Now you’re a star, the novel of Inter, 2007). Between 2004 and 2015 he wrote 44 books for the children’s series, Goal!
Nine-year-old Miki pretends that she has been abandoned while her mother is away in a hospital to give birth to a baby boy. When her mother comes home with the new-born baby and her grandma, Miki thinks that she and her younger sister, Rui, are being made to feel like outcasts. Little by little, Miki learns to accept “the new one” through the experience of meeting a lady with a child-like mind in the park, the visit of her grandma’s sister who reads books for Miki and Rui, and through sharing her feelings with Rui. The author carefully depicts the state of mind of a nine-year-old during this period of change in family relations and excellently portrays the grown-ups through the observing eyes of children.

Joko Iwase was born in Yamaguchi prefecture in 1950. After graduating from college, she worked as a journalist for a local newspaper while studying children’s literature. She wrote her first children’s book in 1977 Asa wa dandan mietekuru (Morning will appear gradually), which won the New Writer’s Award from the Japanese Children’s Book Authors’ Association. In 1992, her tenth book, Usojanaiyo to Tanikawakun wa itta (Tanikawa said it’s not a lie) won two major awards in Japan, and was selected for the 1994 IBBY Honour List. In 2008, Sono nukumori wa kienai (The warmth doesn’t go away) was awarded the Grand Prix of the Japanese Children’s Book Authors’ Association. Iwase describes family and friend relationships from the point of view of the child. She sheds light on the inner thoughts of children: their sad feelings, their distrust of the contradictions in the adult world and their sense of uneasiness in growing up.

Lee Sang-kyo has been writing for Korean children for over forty years. She has been active in many genres of children’s literature including stories, poetry and picture books. Born in Seoul in 1949, she spent her childhood on Ganghwa Island and made her literary debut in 1973 with the publication of her poems in the journal Boys. A selection of her poems was chosen for the Spring Literary Festival Contest sponsored by the daily paper Chosun Ilbo. In 1977 a selection of her stories for children were chosen for the same contest. Her poetry collections include The cricket in my house, My shadow and the bicycle, It's coming alive and Are you asleep, dust? She has written the story series Daenggi Ddaenggi and the picture books Wow and The pumpkin pudding peddler, among others. She has received many awards including the Korean Children’s Story Literary Award and the Sejong Children’s Literature Prize.
Lapsu kalnina mīklas is a historical detective story for children set in the Soviet era in 1961. It tells the exciting story of two boys’ adventures, while relating serious historical facts about the fight of national partisans in Latvia after World War II. The two boys, spending their spring vacations in the countryside, take on the role of detectives to find a roe buck that had disappeared during a forest fire. Their search leads them to other discoveries including a mysterious bunker on a swamplike island. The boys’ grandmother and grandfather begin to share their memories and it turns out that they had been directly involved in the complex historical events.

Māris Rungulis, born 1950, has written prose works for children and teenagers since 1979. Even though he works in the difficult genre of realistic fiction for teens, including complex 20th century history subjects, he is one of the most-read authors in Latvia. He has skilfully addressed sensitive subjects relevant to teenage readers and has created stories that his readers can identify with. His most important works are collections of contemporary children’s folklore Burbulmātei deguns garš (Bubble Mum Long Nose, 1992), Kāķis lēca smēdē (Cat in the Forge, 1994), Jānis, bānis, amerikānis (Teasing Rhymes, 1999), Frida Frikadele (Frieda Frikadelle, 2000) and collection of children’s anecdotes Pēterītis un Annina (Little Peter and Annie, 2013), Nekrietnais and Alfrēds (Mean Alfred, 2013). His book Sirsnsalas (The islands of the heart, 2004) was included in the 2006 IBBY Honour List. Lapsu kalnina mīklas won the International Baltic Sea Region Jānis Baltvils Prize in Children’s Literature and Book Art 2014 and the Latvian Children’s Jury Award 2014.

Fatima Sharafeddine has won several awards for her achievements in the field of children’s literature and has been nominated for the Astrid Lindgren Memorial Award in 2010 and 2011.

The donkey is loaded with pots and pans and Layla has been asked to accompany it to her grandma’s house. Her grandpa warns her not to ride on the donkey because its load is heavy enough. But once on her way, Layla thinks that she weighs so little, it would not hurt the donkey if she hops on its back. As soon as she does, the donkey refuses to move. She gets off and kicks him, which upsets him so much that he starts running as fast as he can, pots and pans falling left and right. Layla follows trying to pick them up. She loses the animal, but finally finds it stuck in a deep dry well. Layla feels sorry for what she did and now has to find a way to get the donkey out of the well and safely to grandma’s house.
Rebecca is a sensible and spirited fifteen-year-old, one of those girls who can be called a perfectionist. She thrusts her way through life, overcoming all obstacles, until she lands up in a world without familiar rules. Rebecca is accidentally transported into a secondary world of islands: a world that is partly realistic, partly surrealistic and at first rather incomprehensible. There are five islands in this secondary world: island of school, island of mother, island of father, island of granny and island of little brother. Travelling around these islands Rebecca begins to better understand her true family life and relations. She learns to value old age, human dignity and honesty. A sense of empathy, as well as other feelings, develops in her heart. This very modern and artistic novel for young adults is gripping, easy to read and thought provoking.

Renata Serelyte was born in 1970. A graduate of Vilnius University, she is a professional author of books for children and adult readers. In 2010, her novel for adults Melybarzdzio vaikai (The bluebeard’s children, 2008) was awarded the Jurga Ivanauskaite prize in Lithuania and was nominated for the prestigious Bank Austria Literaris award for East and Southeast European literature. Her historical novella for young adults, Jundos lentai (The destiny of Junda, 1997), was selected by IBBY Lithuania as the Best Book of the Year and her fantasy novels (five volumes) for little children about the adventures of Krakatukai have been well received. Her works have been widely translated.

Maria García Esperón was born in Mexico City. She studied classical literature and human sciences and has always believed that learning Greek, Latin and the Aztec language, Nahuatl, was like travelling in time. She won the Premio Barco de Vapor en 2004 for her novel El disco del tiempo (The time disk, 2004), the Latin American Prize for Children’s Literature Norma Fundalectura for her novel Querida Alejandría (Dear Alexandria, 2007) and the Premio Hispanoamericano de Poesía para niños for Tigres de la otra noche (Tigers of the night, 2006).
Copii în cățușele Siberiei is based on a true story that happened in 1941. Olguță, a ten-year-old girl from Basarabia was a victim of the totalitarian Stalinist regime. Like many other children, she was deported with her parents to Siberia. The story describes the terrible sufferings she endured when she lost her father and mother. Olguță was alone in the frozen and dark Siberian woods and only the desire to return home gave her the strength to survive.

Spiridon Vangheli was born in Grinăuți, Bălți district in 1932. He is the best-known Moldovan writer for children and his books have been translated into more than 40 languages. His books are full of imagination, humour and innocence and often include the main character Guguță, who represents the image of the universal child. In this collection of poetry and illustrations the writer and illustrator have inspired each other to approach the theme of death in a unique way. In different forms of poetry – songs, ballads, rhymes and poems – Bette Westera explores the diverse subjects concerning death: the existence of heaven, suicide, inheritance, mourning rituals, epitaphs and funeral cards. Doodgewoon is not, however, a depressing book. The tone differs in each poem from serious to light. The notion behind Doodgewoon is that the only certainty in our lives is death – and that we should get used to that idea.

Bette Westera, born 1958 in Velp, completed the Pedagogical Academy and then studied psychology. She has been a teacher and has worked for the Reformed Church as a catechetical associate. In 1990 she made her writing début with a sequence of children’s Bible stories and from 1999 has written several stories for young children as well as collections of poems. She has previously worked with Sylvia Weve for the books Aan de kant, ikken ja oma niet (Out of the way, I’m not your grandmother, 2012) and Ik leer je liedjes van verlangen (I’ll teach you songs of longing, 2010), which is a collection of rhyming animal stories.

Gerke is crazy about cars. You can ask him whatever you like and he will tell you – in detail – everything there is to know about any type of car. One night however, as his mother puts him to bed, he feels it is his turn to ask a question. He wants to know whether he can ask for a new father for his birthday. He believes that he has not been very lucky with the father who is sitting downstairs in the living room. His mother, of course, is a little upset, but she promises she will give this strange question some serious consideration. When it is Gerke’s birthday, a strange man called Harm is waiting for him at breakfast. His own father has disappeared; Mother claims she put him in a dustbin. At first Gerke is reasonable happy with Harm, but after a while things seem much less special and pleasant. Gerke realizes he misses his old father and starts looking for him.

Thys Wadman was born and raised in the small Frisian town of Sneek. He trained as an elementary school teacher. Asked to participate in the development of new course materials for the Frisian language, he began writing short stories and poetry for children, always inspired by his work as a teacher and by his own youth. Those first stories and poems were published in the Frisian school magazines Switsj and LinKk. His first collection of short stories, which is partly autobiographical: De oerwinnings fan Tido Houtsma (The victories of Tido Houtsma, 2010), received the Simke Kloostermanprize in 2013. Thys Wadman, in collaboration with the musician and songwriter Hindrik van der Meer, published De bisteboel fan Omke Roel (The caboodle of Uncle Noodle), which was distributed as a special gift in the 2011 Children’s Book Week in Friesland.
Singing Home the Whale is an extraordinary story of a boy who protects a baby killer whale that locals believe is threatening their livelihood. Will Jackson is hiding out, a city boy reluctantly staying with his uncle in small-town New Zealand while he struggles to recover from a brutal attack and the aftermath of a humiliating YouTube clip gone viral. After he discovers a young abandoned orca, his life is thrown further into chaos when he rallies to help protect it against hostile locals. Linked by Will’s love of singing, the boy and the whale develop a special bond, a powerful connection that is utterly convincing on the page. Singing Home the Whale is a strong, plot-driven, exciting story with drama, tension and romance, and a compelling exploration of many global concerns.

Mandy Hager lives on the Kāpiti Coast in the south-western part of the North Island of New Zealand. The bridge in Most nad Missisiipi is a symbol of understanding and help in need. The bridge is built by Kuba, an eleven-year-old boy with a Mohawk haircut, to help Theodora, who is an elderly lady from the neighbourhood who is confined to bed with an illness. Kuba and Theodora develop an unusual friendship. Both of them struggle in a world that is hostile to children and old people and both feel that they are vegetating on the margin of reality – nobody needs them and nobody cares for them. The rescue mission to help Theodora is described from Kuba’s perspective. Kuba creates his own unique picture of reality collected from facts, emotions, conversations and literature. The novel enchants with its unusual narrative concept as well as the honest, emotional and spare style of narration that lets the reader into the intimate world of a teenager’s emotions.

Ewa Przybylska was born in 1935 in Poznań. After finishing her studies in history at the University of Poznań she worked as a high school teacher and a librarian. She also worked with neglected children and young criminals – her debut book published in 1961 entitled Ucieczka (Escape) was inspired by this experience. During her writing career Ewa Przybylska has written several adult novels but is particularly recognised for her young adult fiction, including Dolina Klonowego Liścia (The valley of the maple leaf, 1989) and Dotyk motyla (The touch of a butterfly, 1994). She has been awarded the Book of the Year twice by the Polish Section of IBBY: in 1998 for Dzień kolibra (The day of a hummingbird) and in 2013 for Most nad Mississipi.
This book of poems comes from the author's childhood experiences. A child invents something every day, gradually but confidently learning that he or she is an integral part of this world. Each poem in this book is a little child's discovery offered to other children simply and naturally in the verses of the poems. The poems are filled with warm-heartedness and kindness, full of capacious characters, pure as baby's breath and radiant like the smiling faces of relatives and friends.

Alexey Shevchenko, born 1950, is an author, poet, prose writer, actor and teacher. He is author of over a hundred books for children and teaches a course on poetry and prose for gifted children at the Saint Petersburg City Palace of Youth Creativity. In his stories and poetry he writes about familiar traditional things: nature, rural and urban life and the motherland. In 2005, he won the Samuel Marshak National Award for the best book of poems for children for Forty magpies. He was nominated for the Nicholas Roerich International Prize in 2011 and was the winner of the international competition Constellation of Talents in 2014. His most significant books are: The clouds bathed in the river (1983), Discovery (2008), Mysterious Petersburg (2003), I read fluently (2012), Secrets of the house No.22 (2013) and a series of fairy tales Ponaroshkino (2010–2013).

Rwema and his beautiful and kind wife Ineza are living peacefully. Ndekezi, a former boyfriend of Ineza is their jealous neighbour. Seeing such a happy couple, Ndekezi cannot resist trying to disturb their desirable life. Taking advantage of the genocide, which killed almost all their Tutsi family relatives, Ndekezi manages to separate Rwema and Ineza. They survive the genocide separately, living in loneliness, convinced that the other is no longer alive, even living in the same house without recognising each other. Sorrow and lamentations, poverty, disease, exile, depression and trauma have replaced their former happiness and sweet melodious songs. Until one day, by chance, they both go to the Akagera River in an attempt to commit suicide and finally recognise each other. Rwema and Ineza are able to regain their paradise, together with their son Rwibutso whom Rwema has been caring for, unaware that it was his own child.

Svetina, Peter

Ropotarna (The lumber room)

A Ropotarna is a place to store old, useless things. In this book, the author has combined long and short tales, tales about people and tales about objects, poems and short texts playing with language, some of them bordering on nonsense.

Various literary genres and forms follow in an intentionally untamed order and rhythm; each page is a complete surprise. After a longer story, which is full of suspense, the reader is given a poem; one moment laughing at the author's trademark humour then simply marvelling at the sound of the language and the linguistic acrobatics. In addition to the normal index, which lists 12 stories and 9 poems, two indexes are added at the end with subject and name inventories of everything that the junk-room offers.

Lubomír FeldeK, born in 1936 in Žilina, graduated from teacher training college in Bratislava and went on to study Slovak language and literature. He has worked in publishing, as a dramaturge for the theatre and as a freelance writer. The principle of a dialogue between an adult and the child dominates his prose and poetry and in this way he has introduced a new form of Slovak children's literature. He has won several awards including the Cena Fraňa Kráľa award for children's literature in 1972. His poetry works include: Hra pre tvoje modré oči (The play for your blue eyes, 1959), Na motýľich kridlách (On butterfly wings, 1974), Jantárový svet (Amber world, 1977) and Pät detektívov (Five detectives, 1982). His prose works include: Zlatúšik (Darling, 1965), Rozprávky na nití (Stories on a thread, 1970), Modrá kniha niti (The blue book of stories, 1974), which was included in the IBBY Honour List in 1976, and Veľká kniha slovenských rozprávok (The big book of Slovak stories, 2003), which was selected as the Most Beautiful Autumn Book in 2003. Šalamúnova Pieseň piesní won the Most Beautiful Autumn Children's Book in 2014.

Peter Svetina, born in 1970 in Ljubljana, is a writer, poet, translator and literary academic. He studied Slovene language and literature at the University of Ljubljana, where he obtained a PhD in 2001 in early Slovenian literature. Since 2007 he has lectured on southern Slavonic literature at the Institute for Slavonic Studies at the University of Klagenfurt in Austria. He writes poems for adults and professional and scientific articles on early Slovene and youth literature. His works include Klobuk gospoda Konstantina (Mr Constantine's hat, 2007), winner of the Original Slovenian Picture Book Award in 2008, Modrost niskih konjev (Hippopotamus wisdom, 2010), Mrožek, mrožek (The little walrus, 2013) and the poetry collections Pesmi iz pralnega stroja (Poems from the Washing Machine, 2006) and Domače naloge (Home works, 2014). In 2013 Ropotarna received the Golden Pear Award for the best Slovene book for young people and the Večernica Award.
I tried hiding it. I tried reasoning it away: It doesn't mean anything. It's only a phase you're going through. That's what you tell yourself. And you're lying to yourself. You know, but you don't want to know. Brent is popular. He has lots of friends. He plays rugby and he likes parties. He sort of has a girlfriend. And he is gay. Never before has an Afrikaans novel for teenagers dealt so openly, sensitively and honestly with a boy's struggle to come to terms with his sexuality.

Fanie Viljoen is one of the best-known South African authors of books for children and young adults. He has published more than 35 books, including award-winning and bestselling titles such as BreinBliksem (MindFk, 2005), Onderwêreld (Underworld, 2008), the Nova-series (2010–2014), Betower (Enchanted, 2012) and Pleisters vir die Dooies (Band-Aids for the dead, 2014). He has been awarded the prestigious M.E.R. Prize for Youth Literature, the Golden Sanlam Prize for Youth Literature, and a number of ATKV Children's Book Awards. His book Leeus met letsels (Scared Lions) was included in the IBBY Honour List selection in 2014.

Miscast is a novel about Catherine, a young girl who knows from an early age that she has been miscast as a girl. During primary school her life undergoes a series of changes: her mother and father separate, her beloved grandmother dies, her mother remarries and she acquires a sister. However, the greatest change for her is when, as puberty approaches, she realises she is a boy and assumes her real name and identity as Caleb. When Caleb goes to high school, his life becomes complicated. The small, protected world in which he has safely negotiated his identity gives way to hostile power struggles and prejudices, which almost destroy him. In the traumatic time of rebuilding his confidence he learns about friendship, compassion for others, acceptance of who he is and the need for honesty.

Charmaine Kendal has lived in Cape Town for most of her life. She studied at the University of Cape Town and qualified as a teacher in 1975. She has been involved in education for over twenty years. In 2003 she resumed her studies, eventually graduating with a Master’s in Education in 2007. She has co-authored English language textbooks and in 2014 her play, Doorways was the English winner for Drama in the Maskew Miller Longman Literature competition. Miscast is her first published novel.
Manu is an outsider who has problems finding his place in the world. A musician, his instrument of choice is something few would even consider a musical tool – the broom. However, this does not stop him from forming an orchestra that defies all conventions: a violinist who might stop playing at any point because his armpits itch, a trumpet player rescued from the circus, a countertenor who sells ice cream...

Orkestra Lurtarra is a story about creativity, the search for a vocation, friendship and collaboration. It is a celebration of things and people who are different, which suggests that if we use our imagination, it is possible to overcome the hardships of life, failures, fears, our own limitations or even the loss of our loved ones.

Harkaitz Cano was born in Lasarte in 1975. He works as a radio, television and comic scriptwriter. Daya and her twin sister, Inge, together with one hundred other girls, are isolated in a school in the mountains without any contact with adults. The school is fully automated and the teachers are not real but holograms. The girls have been hidden there for years to ensure that they are the first generation of humans who survive the effects of a pandemic. Unexpectedly, a natural disaster forces the girls to leave the school and face the real world. In the world after the expected pandemic, violence is a way of life, and nothing is what it seems. What is left of civilization is under the power of an authoritarian regime.

Román Casas asked his parents for a cooking course for his tenth birthday, which coincides with All Souls’ Day or the Day of the Dead. On that special day, he receives a most peculiar present: a coffin accompanied by a black envelope containing the instructions to activate a cook who died in the nineteenth century and who never leaves the side of a scary spider. On board the mortuary bus, the three new friends, together with a cat, travel to the underworld where the dead live under the orders of a tyrant who rules with the help of his terrifying henchmen. A dozen mouth-watering recipes, the tastiest that exist in the worlds of the living and the dead, precede each mouthful of this story laced with macabre humour that will stimulate the reader’s appetite and curiosity for the world of cooking.

Ledicia Costas was born in Vigo in 1979. She is a law graduate and an author. She wrote her first novel, Unha estrela no vento (A star in the wind, 1999), while she was still in her teens. Years later, in the series Fóra de Xogo, she published Ocorazón de Xúpiter (The heart of Jupiter, 2012) and Recinto gris (Grey enclosure, 2014). Her latest book is Un animal chamado néboa (An animal called mist, 2015). She was awarded the Merlin Prize for Children’s Literature for Escarlatina a cociñeira defunta.

In 1606, el Greco was the most famous painter in Toledo. He was a point of reference in Toledo’s cultural life and welcomed in his workshop the most important members of Toledo’s nobility. After receiving some of the first cocoa nuts brought to Europe, he extended an invitation to the local nobles to drink this new beverage: chocolate. Among his guests was Marquise Simonetta Rioro, an acquaintance from his youthful years in Italy. Fearful of el Greco’s familiarity with her less than illustrious past, the Marquise devises a cruel plan against the Master including a damming testimony in the Courts of the Spanish Inquisition. The story is told through the eyes of the Greco’s apprentice, Alonso de Segovia, known as “el Rojo”. As apprentice, Alonso was permitted to complement el Greco’s paintings with the sabers, rich draperies, wooden chairs, or flowers that adorned the Master’s famous paintings. Alonso is Master el Greco’s bastion of strength. However, he is also damned as he is irreparably in love with the beautiful Elisa who is none other than the granddaughter of the Marquise’ husband from a previous marriage.

Maria Isabel Molina was born in Madrid. She has a degree in accounting but from a young age has written books for children and young adults. Mördarens apa is an adventure set in early 20th century Portugal. The story takes place in Lisbon's harbour and working-class areas, in the midst of milling crowds and the fado singing in restaurants above on the steep hills. When Chiefen ends up in a Lisbon prison, wrongly accused of murder, Sally Jones, a gorilla, does her best to save him. She learns to mend everything from stockings to musical instruments to aeroplanes. Her attempts to clear her good friend take the faithful gorilla across the stormy seas all the way to India and the Maharadja of Bhupor. When Sally Jones is given a typewriter, a new world is opened for her. At last she can tell the truth about the murder of Alphonse Morro.

Mark is a future swimming champion. His path seems to be already marked out: moving to the capital to attend a sports school with a state-of-the-art-trainer. In reality, the 15-year-old teenager owes his sporting achievements to his fight against deep existential fears: his painful search for his personal identity, torn between his own expectations and the expectations of his family. Mark confides his thoughts, his feelings and his sufferings in a personal diary. His confidences are rich in symbols, associations and cultural references and capture crucial moments of adolescence in crisis.

Born in Geneva in 1976, Jean-Noël Sciarini now lives in Paris. He received the Fnac-Literature-Switzerland Revelation Award in 2007 for his theatre monologue Une ombre dans ta ville (A shadow in your city). He wrote his first novel Nous étions des passe-muraille (We were persons who walk through the walls) in 2010. Autopsie d’un papillon is his fifth novel.
2½ Gespenster is narrated by the independent, poetic and yet humorous voice of 16-year-old Jonna. She tells the story of Leo, the man with the red cowboy boots, who appears in Jonna’s family one morning and stays for good. Leo says very little about his past. As he helps out her good-hearted father in the printing shop, the young man fascinates Jonna. But things turn spookier when Leo just stays in bed, without the slightest motivation to leave the house or explain his behaviour. Jonna and her parents begin to face a real challenge.

Regina Dürig was born in Mannheim, Germany in 1982, but studied at the Swiss literary institute in Biel, where she now lives. She teaches writing workshops and works as an author and performer. She writes prose miniatures, narratives and audio plays. In 2012 she was nominated by the youth jury for the Deutscher Jugendliteraturpreis for her first work Katertag (Chicken House). For the manuscript, which led to the publication of 2½ Gespenster, she was awarded the Peter-Härtling-Prize and the novel was nominated for the Swiss Award for Children and Youth Media in 2015.

Bedo is no different than any other 18-year-old boy that you see on the streets: he is quiet, suffering from the problems at school, attached to his earplugs, happy with his books and with his city and his cosmopolitan neighbourhood. However, Bedo, his mother and grandfather, all struggle not to be swallowed by a giant hole that was created in the family years ago. When Bedo was just a baby, his father died in an accident at sea. Never discussed, his father’s absence grew more pronounced with a constant silence that affected the entire family. One day Bedo starts to receive unsigned messages. Bedo eventually finds out the truth when his grandfather tells him that his father is still alive. Bedo then reaches out to his father and they go on a caravan trip together. Bedo starts to see a different side to his father and understands the truth about his past.

Ahmet Büke was born in Manisa in 1970 and currently lives in Izmir. He has won the 2008 Oğuz Atay Story Prize and the 2011 Sait Faik Story Award. The stories of Bedo, which he started writing under the title Bedo’s Books on the ON8 Blog, turned into his first novel Mevzumuz Derin (Our state is deep) (2013), which was awarded Best Young Adult Novel of the Year by IBBY Turkey in 2013 and was selected by the International Youth Library for the 2014 White Ravens catalogue. His short stories published each week on the ON8 Blog have been compiled in his new book, İnsan Kendine de İyi Gelir (I’m good for me too, 2015).
A drawing of a wheelchair lies in the middle of the boy's room. The boy and his father are dream sellers. Every day, they sell colourful balloons in the marketplace. Whenever a child approaches, they would ask what its dream is and then draw the dream on a balloon. As the balloon inflates the dream grows bigger and bigger. The boy succeeds in selling all his balloons and uses the money to buy a wheelchair for his mother, thus fulfilling his own dream. The story draws on the value of perseverance to achieve your dreams.

Mohanned Thabet Alakouse is a Syrian writer born in Damascus in 1938. He worked as an educator at an institute for the blind and worked as an editor for Osama magazine. He has published several children books and has written in many periodicals across the Arab world.

The story begins with Lucky, a human boy who travels through the galaxy in search of his identity, undergoing changes in both mind and body. However, the book is not just Lucky's personal story. Like most good science fiction, this multi-layered story has comments to make about our contemporary world – about war and peace, prejudice, borders and barriers to migration. Political and moral questions and the importance of friendship and family are explored, but above all, this is an exciting fast-paced narrative in which secrets unfold along the way. The black and white illustrations swirl around the text echoing the eeriness of Lucky's journey through the stars.

SF Said was born in Beirut, Lebanon in 1967, but has lived in London since he was two years old. He graduated from the University of Cambridge and worked as a press attaché and speechwriter. He is a respected author and has judged the Whitbread (now the Costa) Book Awards and given talks at the British Library, the British Film Institute, the Ashmolean Museum in Oxford and on BBC Radio 4. He has written extensively about children's and young adult fiction for the Guardian and the Daily Telegraph newspapers. His first book, Varjak Paw (2003) won the Nestlé Smarties Book Prize and several regional Book of the Year awards. It has been adapted as a stage play and an opera and a film version is in development. The sequel The Outlaw Varjak Paw (2005), won the BBC's Blue Peter Book Of The Year. Phoenix was shortlisted for the Guardian Children’s Fiction Award, nominated for the CILIP Carnegie Medal and won the Warwickshire Secondary Schools Book of the Year.
Brown Girl Dreaming, Jacqueline Woodson’s memoir in verse, begins at the time of her birth in 1963, in “a country caught / between Black and White”. She offers images and sharp observations of her life during the decades of the civil rights movement and Vietnam War. Through the eyes of a child narrator, she shares family stories and intimate moments as she moves from Columbus, Ohio, to her grandparents’ house in rural, racially divided Greenville, South Carolina, to the lively multicultural city streets of Brooklyn, New York. She shares her first-hand experiences of how African-Americans were treated differently in the North and South. Her own path to becoming a writer is beautifully woven in with her life experiences: “I’ll be a writer. I’ll be able to hold onto / each moment, each memory / everything”.

Jacqueline Woodson studied at Adelphi University and at the New School in New York and then worked as an editorial assistant and drama therapist for runaway children. She is currently the Young People’s Poet Laureate and lives in Brooklyn, New York. She has commented that as a child she loved watching words flower into sentences and sentences blossom into stories. Her books – including picture books, middle grade and young adult novels, an adult novel, and a novel in verse – have been widely translated. In 2014, Jacqueline Woodson was a finalist for the Hans Christian Andersen Award. Brown Girl Dreaming won the National Book Award, Coretta Scott King Author Award, E.B. White Read-Aloud Award and a Newbery Honor.

Cuentos a patadas tells a set of stories about a school football tournament that is organized to resemble the World Cup. David has been chosen as starter for his team. As the tournament progresses the game becomes increasingly difficult and David learns more about the other players, players that are named after famous football stars: Zidane, Balotelli, Vinotinto and Maradona. David learns not just about football, but also about training, discipline and life. The illustrations with black, white and green graphics enhance the action of the story.

Istvansch’s innovative book is a collection of parody, tricks, disinformation and nonsense. The excellent illustrations, texts as well as paratexts and design, condense the disparate nature of the book. They produce in the reader, both young and old, smiles and flashing laughter, questions and silences. Puatucha Rentes, la leyenda olvidada highlights the originality, quality and unique creativity of the artist. It is for young readers who enjoy challenges in reading and who can admire the beauty of the visual images.

Istvansch was born in Madrid in 1968 and now lives in Buenos Aires, working as an illustrator, writer, designer and editor. His best-known books are: El ratón más famoso (The most famous mouse, 2005), ¿Has visto? (Did you see? 2006), Detrás de él estaba su nariz (Behind him was his nose, 2008), Con todas las letras (With all the letters, 2010), Todo el dinero del mundo (All the money in the world, 2005), Boca de león (Mouth of a lion, 2006), Federica aburrida (Federica boring, 2009) and Escenitas de vida cotidiana (de gente común y corriente) (Little scenes of everyday life (for ordinary people), 2010). His books have been published in several countries and his awards include the first mention for the “Latin American Utopia” Award (Colombia) and the first prize of Honour Octagon 2004 (CIELJ-RICOCHET, France) as well as nominations for the Hans Christian Andersen Award in 2002 and 2004. His work was selected for the 1st Ibero American Illustration Catalogue (Guadalajara, Mexico, 2010). He has taught and researched in the field of illustration and has written articles for national and international journals.
Banjo, a good ‘chook dog,’ rounds up the chickens each night; but when Ruby Red fails to respond, he cares for her in such a way that her life is saved. The story is told in an elegant and deceptively simple text. Blackwood’s illustrations, with their restrained palette, accurately depict the Australian countryside. The expressions of the animal characters show their individuality and the depth of their relationships: we see the concern on Banjo’s face when he finds Ruby Red and his gentleness as he lifts her up. The illustrations are made using a combination of laser print on watercolour paper with oil paints and charcoal. The composition of the book is restrained, balancing the illustrations perfectly: the scratchy type which accentuates the onomatopoeia (‘Bark. Bark. Bark’) is particularly effective.

Freya Blackwood has been illustrating picture books since 2002. She enjoys the designing and problem solving involved in the creation of a picture book. Her illustrated books include Two Summers by John Heffernan (2003), Amy & Louis (2006), and Clancy and Millie and the Very Fine House (2009), both by Libby Gleeson. In 2010 she was the recipient of the prestigious Kate Greenaway medal for Harry and Hopper (Margaret Wild, 2009). Recent books include The Terrible Suitcase (Emma Allen, 2012) and The Treasure Box (Margaret Wild, 2013). In 2015 she was the winner in three categories of the Children’s Book Council of Australia Awards: My Two Blankets (Irena Kobald, 2014) won in the Picture Book category, Go to Sleep, Jessie! (Libby Gleeson, 2014) won in the Early Childhood category and The Cleo Stories: The Necklace and the Present (Libby Gleeson, 2014) won in the Young Readers category.

Qez hamar is a collection of poems, funny stories and one tale for children from five to thirteen years old. All the illustrations are made using Adobe Photoshop.

In addition to Qez hamar by Khachik Harchyan she has illustrated the novel Es nkarum em (I draw, 2014) by Silva Hovhannisyan. She participated in the international comic festival in Angouleme in 2012, 2013, 2014, and in other competitions.
Mr Scribble is made of lines. Ms Smudge is made of shapes. Together they have a wonderful day full of colour pencils, paintbrushes, colours, forms and creative ideas. What can you draw with a piece of uncooked spaghetti? How do you build grass stilts? How a few lines and spots of colour can become an entire book – that is what our two experts teach us. With several foldout pages, Kritzel und Klecks offers many surprises and ideas for creative fun. A delicious treat for your eyes, with lots to discover and try – the book won the Austrian Children’s and Juvenile Book Award 2015 and was nominated for the Deutscher Jugendliteraturpreis 2015 and the Viennese Children’s and Juvenile Book Award 2014.

Renate Habinger, born in 1957, trained to become graphic designer in Vienna. She has worked as a freelance illustrator and graphic designer since 1975 and received numerous awards. Her illustrations include those for Alter John (Old John, text by Peter Härtling, 1981), Es war einmal: von A bis Zett (Once upon a time: From A to Z, written and illustrated together with Linda Wolfsgruber, 1999) Neun nackte Nilpferddamen (Nine naked hippoladies, by Gerda Anger-Schmidt, 2003) and Gaggalagu (by Michael Stavarič, 2006).

Verena Ballhaus, born 1951 in Germany, worked as a stage set designer in Munich after studying art. Later she began illustrating picture books and children’s literature. She has received numerous awards for her work, including the Deutscher Jugendliteraturpreis. Her works include: Papa wohnt jetzt in der Heinrichstrasse (Daddy is living now at Heinrichstrasse, by Nele Maar, 1988), Der Tag, an dem Marie ein Ungeheuer war (The day, Marie was a monster, by Lotte Kinskofer, 2001).

Ingrid Godon (1958) was born in Wilrijk, Antwerp. She studied commercial design at the Academy of Fine Arts in Liége and worked as a freelance illustrator for educational publishing houses in Belgium, the Netherlands and France. She created the illustrations as well as the storyline for Wachten op Matroos (Hello, Sailor, 2000), written by André Sollie, which received major awards in the Netherlands and Belgium. The book has been translated into over forty languages and is now a classic. Ingrid Godon works with pencil, coloured pencil and pastel and uses old brownish paper and plain cream tinted paper. Her illustration style is unusually pure, often simplified to the essentials. Her work stands out for its poetic atmosphere and its powerful depictions of people.

After the success of Ik wou (I wish, 2011), Ingrid Godon and Toon Tellegen have joined forces again to create another wonderful book full of thoughtful texts and illustrations. A book full of daydreaming and trains of thought that touch the reader, make them smile and provoke them to think. Ik denk is a heart-warming encounter between words and images. Together, the words and the images tell vulnerable stories, show secret thoughts, unusual wishes and dreams: I think that something unexpected will happen today, something very important./ My heart pounds because I'm thinking about it./ I'm trying to imagine what it could be, but I can't./ It wouldn't be a surprise anymore.

Os três ratos de Chantilly
(The three mice from Chantilly)
Text by the artist
[46pp]; 190×280mm
Cunning, fraud

The book retells the story of the three blind men of Compiègne – a traditional oral tale that has been passed from one generation to the next for centuries. In this new version, the author/illustrator turns the three men into three mice and the villain into a cunning owl. Luckily fate is on the side of the mice. The gentleness and the skill of the illustrations lead the reader through this pleasant story, which is sprinkled with wit and wisdom.

Alexandre Camanho was born in São Paulo in 1972. He attended the engraving workshop of Evandro Jardim at SESC Pompeia in São Paulo. He began his career as an illustrator in 1999 with the magazine Imprensa. He has also taken part in exhibitions and arts salons. In his illustrations for children and young people he emphasizes the fantastic, the playful and the caricature: tracing in his lines his impressions and feelings and creating a highly personal work. He has received the Highly Recommended Honour from FNLJJ. In 2015 O galo e a raposa (2014) and Os três ratos de Chantilly received FNLJJ Awards for Best Illustrated Books.

Fish, tamarind, friendship

Through the story of two friends, a fish and a tamarind tree, this book brings to life the need for understanding about different ways of interacting with the world. The fish's energy and movement are captured in its position and size on the page as it mocks its steadfast friend, the tamarind tree. The tree is a constant: the position and perspective of the tree remain the same, until the end, when we see the tree from a new position as it takes action to save the fish. The most striking feature of this book is the medium used to create it. The tree is made with real tamarind leaves spilling from its crown and the bark is rough and fibrous. The fish is constructed from small dried leaves in subtle but rich colours. High quality photography of these, combined with thick oils to create the surrounding landscape, give the book a 3D feel, which puts the reader truly at the scene of this tale of true loyalty.

The book is created by a collective of six artists that each use new media and challenge traditional illustration formats in their work. Prom Vichet, Seng Visal, Try Samphors, Touch Kosal, Sun Duong Sophanita and Soeurum Kakada collaborate and create with others, as well as creating their own works. One of the artists, Seourum Kadada, is a previous Honour List nominee (2014) for a book he co-created with three other illustrators, Chek Chek chong riep kar (Chek Chek wants to get married, 2012).
One autumn day, a lion finds a wounded bird in his garden. With the departure of the rest of the flock, the lion decides to care for the bird. Over the winter, the two become very good friends but in the spring the bird re-joins its flock, leaving the lion all alone. During the months that follow, the lion misses his dear friend. What surprise awaits the lion when autumn returns? With little or no text on many pages, the task of telling this story is left to the illustrations, which perfectly capture the friendship of the two animals, their shared happiness and the boredom the lion feels during his friend’s absence. Executed in watercolour and wood pencil, the illustrations are delicate, using subdued colours and simple compositions in an airy setting. Tenderness and sweetness emerge from this picture book, which explores the changes in nature and above all, the strength of friendship.

Marianne Dubuc studied graphic design at Université du Québec à Montréal. Since 2006 she has worked in the field of children’s literature, illustrating and writing children’s books. With Le lion et l’oiseau, Marianne received Canada’s Governor General’s Literary Award for Illustration. One of her more recent picture books, L’autobus (The bus ride, 2014), won the 2014 Prix des libraires jeunesse. Marianne Dubuc launched her career in Europe with her second book, Devant ma maison (In front of my house, 2010), and has since published several other books. Her works have been translated into 15 languages. Today she lives in Montreal, where she divides her time between her crayons and her family.
It is an ordinary day and an ordinary family, but nevertheless, nevertheless there is something out of ordinary around. It is all because of the carelessness of little Keke: he broke the vase when he skipped rope in the sitting room. Keke’s mother was furious and blamed him, so he went out to the yard. Then some strange things start to happen. A magical journey unfolds in this fantastic story. A wonderful and warm atmosphere is created by the bright watercolours, action-packed and pictures.

Jiu'er, also known as Yang Hongli, was born in North-Eastern China and now lives in Beijing. She has engaged in sculpture design and production for many years and her works have been displayed in international sculpture exhibitions. In 2012, Jiu’er began to create picture books. Her main works include My Sister’s Big Pumpkin, which was selected into the list of “the Top 50 Books for the Public” and the Bubu Bear series. In 2015, Jiu’er co-published The Monsters as well as Don’t Skip Rope with A Frog, with children’s author Peng Yi. She has also written and illustrated the Little Sunshine series.

Juan has a new neighbour, Emma. He decides to welcome her by inviting her to tea—something unusual for him to do. Emma’s company delights, but also disgruntles him because she is so different. Emma is curious and outgoing and invites him to dinner the next day. Juan decides to give her a thank you present that reflects his steady and calm character. The gift surprises Emma, but generates conflict between them and shows the apparent mismatch of their opposing personalities. But opposites can also be complementary. The illustrations portray movement and great vitality. Satizábal draws black and white scenarios and images to represent Juan while applying a wide bright colour palette when drawing Emma and her surroundings. She achieves a highly expressive illustrative language with her drawings and complements the beauty of the images with a textual simplicity that brings balance to the whole.

Amalia Satizábal studied sculpture, photography and Illustration and then did post-graduate studies in creative illustration, visual communication techniques and illustration for publishing. In 2011 she attended the BIB UNESCO Albin Brunovský Workshop. She co-founded Ilustradores Colombianos, a social network for Colombian illustrators that promotes their work, creates and strengthens the illustrator’s community and announces opportunities, contests and events. She currently teaches illustration and works freelance for publishing houses. She has illustrated the children’s books, Historia de amor verdadero entre una rana y un cucarrón (True love story between a frog and a beetle) and Romeo y Julieta (Romeo and Juliet). She was selected for the Moleskine 5×5 myDetour in Florence.
Marino is a picture book about the life of an old Croatian fishing boat, gajeta. The illustrations are painted in acrylic on paper, using a substrate texture to achieve various surface effects. Through strongly felt and expressed colours, the author shows us Marino’s travel adventures: the moods of the sea, life on the sea and on board the boat. Scenes of a storm at sea, shipwreck, restoration and new launch alternate with scenes of bright windy days, calm dusks and starry nights on the calm sea, and also with dreamland scenes in which Marino meets the good ghosts of old sailing ships or listens to the song of the sirens.

Manuela Vladić-Maštruko was born in 1962 and grew up in Zadar. She graduated from the Academy of Fine Arts in Zagreb in 1985 and since then has had a number of solo shows and group exhibitions in Croatia and abroad. Alongside her professional involvement in art, she conducts practical research in the field of human visual expressiveness and creativity. She is the author of a number of multimedia art projects for children and adults and cooperates with museums and galleries by organising and managing arts projects for visitors. Manuela has been a member of several juries dedicated to art and illustration. She has illustrated 10 picture books for children and written a number of articles on art. She has received several awards and prizes for her work. Her most important picture books are Piko u svemiru (Piko in space, 2002), Pauk Oto (Otto the spider, 2004), San o moru (The dream of sea, 2009) and Mauro-plavetni kit (Mauro – the blue whale, 2013).

This story is about the King of Amalthousia and the Harlequin. The King is always sad because his beautiful Queen is in an enchanted sleep. The Harlequin makes all the citizens of Amalthousia happy. One day he travels to the moon and brings back two big blue magical diamonds as a gift for the King. In the end, the reader finds out how these diamonds, with the help of the forest fairy and all her friends, keep away the feeling of sadness and how the King’s beautiful Queen wakes up from her long, deep sleep. Richly illustrated, this fairy tale incorporates the messages of love, cooperation and solidarity.

George Gavriel attended the Academy of Fine Arts Sourikov in Moscow where he organized his first solo exhibition in 1984 and completed a Masters degree of Fine Arts in 1987. Since 1990 he has worked as an art teacher and since 2008 as an inspector of Art in Secondary Education. He maintains a painting workshop where he continues to create his artwork. He has had several solo and group exhibitions and has represented Cyprus twice in the Beijing Biennale in 2010 and 2012. In 2014 he was awarded the State Prize for Literary Book Illustration for Children and Adults.
At night the bats are busy, they head off into the darkness to hunt, equipped with their formidable radar. But the bat youngsters Standa, Bětka and Tonda soon find out that someone is missing. Where did Ferdinand go? The hunt for Ferdinand by his three striped siblings is told in two-verse poems with varying rhymes. The rescue actions are sure to entertain all young readers. This leporello or accordion book is made with a bookbinding that can be folded into a three-dimensional house with a roof. This original and ingenious book offers a brainteaser with a happy end.

Andrea Tachezy (1966) attended the studio of textile works and alternative techniques as well as the studio of animated films at the Academy of Arts, Architecture and Design in Prague. Apart from fine arts, her works include illustrations for children’s books and magazines. Her subtle creations are targeted at young non-readers or beginning readers and are created by combining techniques based on drawing and collage. Her illustrations appear in the books of Zuzana Kovaříková: Za zvířátky do lesa (Animals in the forest, 2012) and Za zvířátky k vodě (Animals by the river, 2013), and Koukej, kouzlo (Look, magic!, 2011) by Daniela Krolupperová and in the illustrations of the book Bořivoj a blecha Fló (Bořivoj and Fló the flea, 2014) by Ivan Binar, which was awarded by the Golden Ribbon Award. She also creates textile toys and motivational books and is one of the core illustrators of the Běžiliška publishing house. Ferdinande! received the Golden Ribbon Award in 2014.

Elisa’s eleven brothers have been turned into swans by their evil stepmother. Elisa sets out to find them and learns that the only way she can break the spell is to knit eleven string vests of stinging nettles. She is not allowed to say a word until the work is done. Elisa’s husband, the king, despairs as he discovers Elisa picking nettles in the churchyard during the night. Maybe his queen really is a witch? The illustrations capture the both fantastic and disturbing universe of Andersen’s fairy tale. The lines of the drawings wind and intertwine in a way reminiscent of art nouveau illustrators such as Mucha and Beardsley. The flowing draperies and striking make-up also point to a Japanese style of drawing. The dramatic depictions of the witches with their grotesque bodies are softened by the white pages of text and the transparent vellum between the pages.

Lars Gabel was born in 1971 in Qaanaaq, Greenland. He studied at Jutland Art Academy and received his Master’s degree in illustration from the Design School Kolding in 1999. He has also studied at the Art Center College of Design in Pasadena, California, and École Supérieure Estiennes des Arts et Industries Graphiques in Paris. His illustrated works include: Politikens store eventyrbog (Politiken’s big fairy tale book, 2005), Prinsessehistorier fra hele verden narrated by Karen Mukupa (Princess stories from the whole world, 2005), Helten by Hans Hansen (The hero, 1999) and the cover illustration to Den hængte mand by Francesca Lia Block (The hanged man, 1999).
The lively illustrations in oil and ink follow Mestre Wilson, as he leaves his clothes behind and starts painting the streets of the city.

Turn here, turn there, three, two, one street … He starts painting!
As the world turns the other way, he stops and turns with the world, up and down, left and right.
Until he recovers his sanity.

Marco Chamorro, born 1975, studied painting at the Daniel Reyes School of Arts in Ecuador, and completed a Masters degree in children’s illustrated books in Madrid, Spain. Ever since he can remember, acting has also been an important part of his life, but he is most content in the world of illustration. In 2001, 2005 and 2010 he won the Dario Guevara Mayagora National Award, which is given to the best children’s illustrator in Ecuador. Two of his earlier books have been selected for the IBBY Honour List: Cielos descalzos (Barefoot skies) in 2010 and Segundo Acto (Second act) in 2012. His most recent illustrated work is El gigante de la laguna (The giant of the lake, 2015).

A 13-year-old boy from Cairo is terrified by his parents’ decision to move for a year to Qena, a village in the rural south of Egypt, where his grandmother and uncle live and run their farm. In this yearlong adventure we discover many things about agriculture and how it still connects modern day Egyptians with their ancient heritage. The boy’s personal struggle to find a role in the family and on the farm, where everyone works in addition to being in school, is balanced by the joys of fresh farm products and a new appreciation for nature and the seasons. However, it is some of the more rigid cultural traditions of the region that pose the biggest challenge for him and his little sister. The illustrations that accompany the diaries of the narrator depict, in fine lines, various elements from the boy’s life in Cairo and in Qena. The diary gains another depth through the illustrations that portray a mix of objects, situations, animals, events and places.

Yasser Gaessa, born 1970, graduated from the Faculty of Fine Arts of Helwan University, Cairo with a specialization in graphics and cartoons in 1993. He has illustrated many books for children and has worked with several publishers over the course of his career. He worked as editor-in-chief at Nona magazine for children and as a political cartoonist for the Rose Al Yousuf magazine, Al Ahram newspaper, Al Masry Al Youm newspaper and Dotmisr, a web newspaper. He has worked as a visual art consultant in several projects and illustrated over 60 books for children. He is the creator of the Art of the World Symposium held in Sahl Hasheesh, Egypt in 2014, which gathered 70 artists from 25 countries.
Unerong is a poem and a lullaby about a train travelling to the Land of Dreams. The beautiful illustrations create an enchanting dreamlike world to complement the text. Soft blue colours, illustrations full of imagination and detail and the overall composition form a beautiful whole. The rhythm of the train runs through the poem and the illustrations. A CD with music composed and performed by Tiit Born accompanies the book.

Anne Linnamägi (born 1966) graduated from the Estonian Academy of Art in graphic arts in 1995 and since then has been working as an artist at the Avita publishing house. She has illustrated and designed many school textbooks and children’s books including Jutt jänesepojast, kes ei tahtnud magama jääda (Story of a little bunny who didn’t want to sleep, 2007), Unenägude lõvi (Lion of dreams, 2010), and Jõuluvana, kes kartis lapsi (Santa Claus who was afraid of children, 2010). Her illustrations are full of charm, warmth and imagination. She has received several awards and her work has been exhibited in many countries. Unerong was awarded the Special Prize of the Jury at Estonian Best Designed Children’s Books in 2013.

A mongrel dog, whose mother advised her not to trust anyone, was named Cat, since cats are independent. But instead of enjoying her independence, Cat is lonely. One spring day Cat finds a similarly lonely man, sleeping under cardboard boxes. These two become friends and the loneliness vanishes. The story, written by Tomi Kontio, a Finlandia Award winning poet, describes friendship and finding your own place in the world. It discusses inequality, multiculturalism and social exclusion without preaching. The illustrations and layout work magnificently with the story. The colour combinations are fascinating, skilfully illustrating a variety of moods. The rhythm, layout and colours are dynamic and variable, yet the end result is harmonious and delicate, complementing the storyline and its message.

Elina Warsta (born 1979) graduated as a graphic designer in 2005 from Lahti Institute of Design and has worked as a freelance graphic designer and illustrator since then. Together with her husband, she owns the design company Solmu. She has illustrated several award-winning book covers and has won the Best Finnish Book Design of the Year competition organized by The Finnish Book Arts Committee. She illustrated the poetry collection and ABC book Aapine written by Heli Laaksonen, which received the Finlandia Junior Award – the most valued children’s book award in Finland, in 2013.
The little girl, Mona, is about to spend the weekend with her father: a typical situation experienced by all children with separated parents. However, Mona’s father lives on the moon! To join him, Mona has to board a rocket and fly all by herself. Everything is fine and she is used to it. On the moon, Mona spends a “normal” day: she plays, rides her scooter, takes a bath … and looks through the telescope, to observe her mother all the way down on Earth. Cheerful and independent, little Mona is a great character. She is confident and happy as she boards the rocket on her own, watched by her loving parents. Albert’s talent is fully displayed in this picture book: his use of colours, the way of depicting movements, of combining giant illustrations with thumbnail pictures create a unique alliance of classicism and modernity. His style is full of imagination, charm and energy.

Adrien Albert was born in Nantes in 1977. After finishing a degree in public law, he became a metallurgist, a videographer, a butler, a cook and a cartoonist. He now focuses on children’s literature, creating his own picture books or illustrating the works of others. I want to share the enthusiasm and the joy I feel when I create these characters and make books that provoke a happy excitement. His works as author-illustrator include: Train fantôme (Ghost train, 2015), Au feu Petit Pierre (Fire, Little Pierre, 2014), Simon sur les rails (Simon on the railways, 2012), Cousa (Cousa, 2010), Zélie et les Gazzis (Zélie and the Gazzi, 2010) and Seigneur Lapin (Lord Rabbit, 2008). He has also illustrated the works of Guus Kuijer, Pauline ou la vraie vie (Pauline or the real life, 2013) and Taboni Misérazzi’s Le Roi du château (The King of the castle, 2012).

Not just an adorably cute mouse, Lindbergh is clever, brave and diligent. Nothing is going to prevent him from crossing the Atlantic in a flying machine. This picture book, set in Hamburg at the beginning of the 20th century, is the backdrop for many topics: emigration to America, the dream of flying, fascination for technology, and perseverance. The book’s appeal is rooted in its authenticity, the realistic portrayal of the city and the nostalgic sheen of the illustrations. With a different perspective for each page – sometimes from above, sometimes from below – the illustrations thrive on the overwhelming number of things the little mouse confronts. The book also includes a short history of flight, thus it crosses into the category of non-fiction.

In the beautiful Aegean Sea, there is an island with no name. It is a small island with a beautiful beach and at the top of the hill there stands a white house with a white stone wall and in its garden grow many pomegranate trees. Inside the house live the seeds of the pomegranate tree. But who are these “seeds”? And who is their mother? When little Manos goes on holiday to the island with his grandfather he learns the story of the “seeds” and how they came to live on the island. This is a beautiful story about life, love and everything we can give the people around us. The colourful illustrations were made with craft paper, crayons, pencils and Photoshop techniques.

Myrto Delivoria was born in Athens in 1974 and is a painter and illustrator. She has presented her work in four solo exhibitions in Athens and has participated in many group exhibitions. She has been honoured with the Greek State Illustration Award twice, in 2011 and 2006, the IBBY Greece Award for Illustration 2006 and Design IEBGE Illustration Award 2011, among others. She has illustrated books by Isaac Bashevis Singer, Ιστορίες για παιδιά (Stories for Children, 2005) and Anthonis Papatheodoulou’s Η πόλη που έδιωξε τον πόλεμο, (The city that drove out war, 2010) and Αν κάθε μέρα (If every day, 2012), amongst others.

This is the story of Ratutu, the little kitten who was raised among the rats in a village of rats. His (rat) parents adopted him after his (cat) family was persecuted. Ratutu went to school with the others, always wearing a hat and trying to adjust to the life of the little rats. But one day, when he was tired of eating rat food, he cried meow meow and grabbed another pupil. The little rats started screaming and everybody panicked: there was a cat in the school! Ratutu’s mother, Ramina was called to explain the presence of the little cat. There was a big meeting and Ramina explained how she came to adopt Ratutu, who then promised that he would behave. Ratutu was finally accepted and that is how rats and cats learn have learned to live peacefully together in the village.

Rodchield Lamothe’s illustrations for Drôle de Ratutu capture the originality of the story. Just as in the story, the depictions of the characters evolve as they show acceptance for one another. The mother shows compassion and understanding as Ratutu grows up. The drawings are clear and help the young reader get the message of the story.
Dingly Hill towers high above the tiny town. How high? Really high! Two singular souls live on top of this grassy mass of mountain: Old Sissy Salt and Ancient Arnold Barrow and of course, a load of monsters with sharp teeth and bad attitudes. Ancient Arnold is the creature keeper but falls asleep, leaving his herd of unruly monsters to tiptoe down into the town. And that is when things go monstrously wrong. Unless you know your monsters and then there’s no need to feel afraid. It is enough to say “Oh, it’s you again!” and then go home to a meal. Know your monsters from tousled top to tangled tail and nothing will scare you again. Bibedombi Szörnyhatározó is a complete compendium of creatures great and gruesome, telling you all you probably never wanted to know about monsters you might meet in the street or catch sight of in the night at the bottom of your bed.

Réka Hanga has also illustrated several works by Ottó Kiss including Ati és aholdvilág (Ati and the moonlight, 2013), Ati repülni tanul (Ati learns to fly, 2014) and Ati a tükör mögött (Ati behind the mirror, 2015).

Little Monster has acquired a kitten. The kitten is tremendously sweet and soft and the little monster enjoys its company. One day the kitten disappears and the little monster is devastated. And big monster is curiously silent. The illustrations of Skrimslakisi, the eighth book in the well-known Monster series, emphasise simplicity. The pages are white and on this white background colour-ful cut-outs and shadows mix with drawings with thick black outlines and sharp edges. Part of the text is drawn in the same cut-out style.

Áslaug Jónsdóttir is an award-winning writer, illustrator and playwright. Her first book was published in 1990. Since then she has written and illustrated a number of books, at times in collaboration with other writers. Her best-known works include the Monster series (2004–14), Ég vil fisk, (I Want Fish, 2009), as well as the illustrations and book design for Sagan aft bláa hnettinum (The story of the blue planet, 2000) by Andri Snær Magnason, which was selected for the IBBY Honour List 2002 and Krakakkvædi by Bodvar Gudmundsson (Children’s Rhymes, 2002), which was selected for the IBBY Honour List in 2004. She is one of three writers who pen the Monster series, but is the only illustrator. The other authors are from Sweden (Kalle Güettler) and the Faroe Islands (Rakel Helmsdal) and all of the books have been published simultaneously in all three languages.
The story is one of the best-known stories from the national epic of Iran, Shahnameh or Book of Kings, by Ferdowsi. Sam is granted his longed-for wish of a child, but he is distressed that his baby, though healthy, has white hair. He feels having a son with white hair is a disgrace and eventually takes the infant to Mount Alvand and abandons it in the wilderness. The mythical bird, Simorgh, chances upon baby Zal and lays him beside her own children and cares for him. After many years, Sam regrets his actions and, learning his son is alive, takes him back. The creative combination of elements and superb technical execution of the illustrations create an ambiance, both beautiful and authentic, that reinforces and amplifies the text. The forceful and dynamic design and characterization are in keeping with the heroic setting of the story and the costumes and visual effects are executed in dynamic and vibrant colours.

Manali Manouchehri was born in 1974 in Tehran. She completed an advanced degree in graphic illustration at the University of Art and then a Master’s degree at the University of Tehran in 2001. She founded the Lotus Art Studio in 2003 and taught art courses at universities in Tehran. She participated in group illustration and desktop publishing exhibitions in Iran and as well as the Sarmede exhibition in 2007 and Mantua exhibition in 2008 in Italy. She has served on the judging committees for the Children’s Book Council of Iran and Children’s Book Illustrators’ Society of Iran. Manali Manouchehri has illustrated a large number of books for children and young people, including The Little Mermaid (2005), Chinese and Roman Paintings (2008) and Nowruz (2010).

Told in a whimsical, humorous style, this book is a collection of nonsense stories and poems. The title story Hardill lo ragill follows the wild adventures of an unusual creature and his boy companion, as they fly in a strange flying machine, visit a crocodile on the River Nile, escape an angry Sultan and participate in a moonlight dance contest. The other poems go on to describe ever more wondrous creatures and absurd situations. The illustrations are drawn with loose, expressive lines. They complement the humorous tone of the text by creating a dynamic and unique world, enriching it with small independent vignettes and details. The illustrations were created using pencils and digital composition.

Omer Hoffmann, born in 1977, is an illustrator and comic artist. He graduated in 2007 from the Bezalel Academy of Art and Design in Jerusalem and went on to illustrate for national and international newspaper publications such as the New York Times and the Wall Street Journal. His work has been displayed at illustration exhibitions worldwide, including the Israeli Illustrators Exhibition in Venice (2013), Children Illustrators in Korea (2015) and Illustration Nation in Tel Aviv (2014). He has received numerous awards for his works, including the Silver Medal from the Society of Illustrators. His illustrated children books include Aba Ahal Daisa (Porridge for Daddy, 2011), Nameret (Leopardpox, 2012), which was included in the IYL White Ravens 2013 selection and Mashal Al Shual (A Tale about a Fox, 2014).
It is not every day that you see a moose, so how can you draw one if you cannot really remember what it looks like? Well, that is easy, you just use your imagination. The pages of Questo è un alce? Is this a moose? show many different interpretations of the animal: large and small, realistic and stylised, with lots of horns or many legs, invisible or chubby, some can swim and others can even fly. This book lets the imagination run wild with this strange animal. The black and white illustrations show how we can have fun by changing the appearance of things in a million different ways using just our imagination.

Andrea Antinoni was born in Recanati in 1992 and grew up in Bologna. He studied graphic design and illustration at the ISIA in Urbino and illustration at the Escola Massana in Barcelona. Following the release of three works with the Milanese magazine Nurant, he began illustrating for a number of Italian publishing houses. Since 2014, he has worked with the Parisian gallery Les Artychauts organising, amongst other things, the children's workshop, Poissons en folie that focuses on the composition of images using stamps. His most recent book, Dalla terra alla tavola. Venti storie di cibo, (From farm to table, 20 stories of food) was published in 2015.

Kibou no bokujou is based on a true story. In March 2011 the Fukushima nuclear power plant suffered major damage from a giant Tsunami resulting for a massive earthquake and areas near the plant were off-limits for most residents. However, one cowman is determined to stay on his ranch and keep raising cattle. Every day he feeds three hundred cows that are contaminated by radioactivity and unable to be sold on the market. He thinks to himself: “maybe there is no purpose to what I’m doing, but I am still a cowman”. The suppressed brush strokes in the illustrations show the distinct power of will of a man fighting despair. The cattle, humans and nature are painted in both representational and abstract styles using watercolour, acryl and coloured ink. The text, the pictures and the subject form a harmonious whole in this picture book that provokes thought on the meaning of life and hope.

Hisanori Yoshida was born in Osaka in 1971. After working in textile design, advertising and stationary design companies, he started a career as a freelance illustrator in 2004. He has illustrated mainly books, including children's picture books such as Warui hon (A bad book, 2011) by Miyaki Miyabe, Oni yori tsuyoi oyomesan (Bride is stronger than ogre, 2013) by Youko Inove, Tsuru no ongaeshi (The grateful crane) and Ame furu honya (Rainy bookshop, 2012) by Rieko Hanata. Kibou no bokujou was selected for BIB’15.
Chillyeon Donganui Jam is a picture book about a large cicada nymph that has spent seven years underground preparing its wings and voice. One day, the cicada nymph is found by a group of starving ants. After fighting over what to do, the ants finally decide to help rather than eat the nymph. To portray a story that occurs deep underground, the illustrator creates an original and vibrant world. You can actively feel the ants’ dynamic movements that are drawn through a mix of restrained lines and shading. The cicada nymph’s volume and unique rough texture comes alive when it is coloured with natural mineral paint. By using red Andong clay to illustrate the underground tunnels, the illustrations vividly recreate nature.

Kim Se-hyun was raised in Dajeon and majored in Oriental Painting at university. As an illustrator he is noted for being able to capture the flow of emotion and space in ways that cannot be expressed through words. By simplifying and assigning a specific subject so that the illustrated space is uniquely structured, he has raised the artistry of picture books to a higher level. In 2004, Kim Se-hyun was awarded the 4th Publishing Art Award and in 2009 he was selected for the Illustrators’ Exhibition at the Bologna Children’s Book Fair. Kim has illustrated books such as Long lived shirt, Bosoongi is strong, The Chinese herring’s bones and The mother pheasant.

This is the last collection of poems for children written by the famous Latvian poet Pēters Brūveris before he passed away in 2011. The subtitle states that these poems are “not just for children” and this is not the only paradox of the book. The poems combine jokes with seriousness, imagination with reality, poetry with prose, the national with the global. The poems are witty, sparkling with good humour and deeply moving. The playful, imaginative illustrations combine a variety of techniques: elements of painting, graphics, caricature and collage. Children will be excited about the bright colours and plastic figures of the illustrations, whereas ironwps YiNN be involved in the subtle riddle game of deciphering cleverly hidden allusions to well-known people as well as facts of culture and history.

Gundega Muzikante was born in 1964. She graduated from the Graphics Department of the Latvian Academy of Art, acquired a Master’s degree in 2009 and worked as a teacher in several art schools. She has participated in graphic art exhibitions since 1987 and worked with book art since 1990. She has illustrated more than 20 books for children as well as several textbooks, booklets, posters, calendars, children’s magazines and an animated film. She has received a number of prizes, including The Most Beautiful Book of the Year: in 1995 for the book Kā Rukstītis ciemos gāja (How the piglet went visiting), in 1997 for the book Eža kažociņš (Hedgehog’s Coat), in 1998 for the book Lieldienas un Mārtiņi (Easter and St. Martin’s Day) and in 2000 for the book Kaziņa par ligavu (Goat Bride). In 1992 she won the Indulis Zeberiņš prize for the book Strupastiša talcinieki (The Helpers of The Short-Tail) and in 2002 she was voted Illustrator of the Year.
Samaka halemotou biha is a nostalgic story about the relationship between a fish and a little girl. The illustrations are made with watercolours and collage and are colourful, joyful and harmonious.

Simar Halwany graduated in 2000 from the Lebanese University of Beirut with a Bachelor’s degree in Fine Arts, specializing in painting and etching. She continued her higher education and currently holds a Masters Degree in illustration and children’s book production from Mimaster Illustrazione in Milan. She specializes in painting with oil, acrylic, pastel and watercolours. Her artwork converts reality to a colourful imagery, taking us to mythical places, adding charm and joy to life. Simar Halwany has been a member of the Lebanese Association of Fine Arts since 2002 and has carried out several decorative art projects in Beirut, including murals, mosaics and ceiling and canvas paintings. After moving to UAE in 2004, she attended advanced sculpting courses at the Abu Dhabi Authority for Culture and Heritage, creating art works in two and three dimensions.

In this picture-book puzzle, the ever-changing illustrations create a story about a bird that is born without wings. The bird’s desire to fly is emphasized through various geometric forms and colours. There are only a few words and sentences in the book, but the subtle language of art and overlapping layers of illustrations give the story an additional artistic value and encourage the reader’s creativity. Although the book is intended for very young readers, it is interesting for older children as well as for adults.

Ieva Babilaitė, born in 1973, is a prolific artist working across numerous fields. She studied graphic design at the Academy of Art in Vilnius and now creates prints, art objects, photography and calligraphy on handmade paper. She paints, illustrates and writes books, organizes exhibitions and projects. She has illustrated 10 children’s books and also created the picture book Čiauškinčios raidės (Chattering letters, 2010). The book Ulė ir peliukas (Ule and little mouse, 2005) received an incentive award of Lithuania’s Most Beautiful Book Competition in 2005. Two books illustrated by Ieva Babilaitė were recognized as the most artistic books of the year: Kiškis Pranciškus be abejo (Pranciškus the hare, without doubt, 2011) by Vytautas Landsbergis and Vaizdai iš gyvenimo bobulytės ir kt. (Scenes from granny’s life and more, 2012) by Antanas Šimkus. The latter book was awarded first prize in Lithuania’s Most Beautiful Competition and a Diploma in the Tallinn Illustrations Triennial. Skrīsiu was awarded the main prize in Lithuania’s Most Beautiful Book Competition in 2014.
Jaguar, “Corazón de la Montaña” (The heart of the mountain)
Text: Ana Paula Ojeda
Mexico City: Ed. Tecolote, 2014
[34pp]; 260×230mm

*Jaguar, cosmogony

Jaguar, Corazón de la Montaña narrates the myth of the jaguar in pre-Hispanic culture. The jaguar represents the beginning and also the end of humanity. In the myth, humans have to defeat the jaguar to develop civilization, but in the end the jaguar retakes his position and eats the humans. The jaguar as a mythical creature is associated with the night; it is also referred as the lord of animals in various American cultures. The illustrations are done in acrylic: the background is predominantly dark but the artist has given the pieces in the centre a certain light that illuminates the whole page.

Juan Palomino studied philosophy at the National Autonomous University of Mexico. He has illustrated children’s books for the publishers Nostra Ediciones, Progreso, Ediciones SM, Fondo de Cultura Economica, Ediciones Castillo and La Caja de Cerillos. In 2008 he won the second place at the XVIII Publication’s Catalogue of Illustrations for Children and Youth and first place for the XXVI poster contest Invitemos a leer (Let’s invite to read) as well as first place in the fourth edition of the Ibero-American Illustration Catalogue.

This book is a series of poems written by Arcadie Suceveanu. His poems are funny and instructive at the same time. His characters include a cicada that had moved from an inkpot to a computer and now writes the poems together with the author, a bear that plays chess with a fox, a penguin called the Lord Pi Ngü In and other characters. The reader learns how to measure silence and electrical power, how the caterpillar becomes a butterfly and many more interesting things. The natural and soft illustrations have been made digitally.

Stela Damaschin-Popa was born in Străşeni in 1979. She graduated from the Academy of Music, Theatre and Fine Arts in Chişinău. She has worked at Prut Internaţional publishing house as a book illustrator, but is now a freelance artist. Her illustrations for children’s books have been presented at BIB in 2005 and 2015. She has illustrated about 40 books for children as well as textbooks. Among her illustrated books are Știuca la şcoală (Pike at school, 2002), Alfabetul poetic (Poetical alphabet, 2007) and Întrebări colorate (Coloured questions, 2014) all by Arcadie Suceveanu, Întâmplări cu Nătăleşă (Adventures of Nărăleşă, 2003) by Aureliu Busuioac and Templul Bunătăţii (The temple of kindness, 2005) by Aurelian Silvestru. În cămaşă de cireaşă won the Best Graphical Presentation of Book Award at the International Children and Youth Book Fair in Chişinău in 2015.
The first edition of Alice’s Adventures in Wonderland was published 150 years ago. On a golden afternoon young Alice follows a white rabbit down a nearby rabbit hole. Quickly following him she tumbles into the burrow and enters the merry topsy-turvy world of Wonderland. Memorable whimsical escapades highlight Alice’s journey that culminates in a madcap encounter with the Queen of Hearts. Floor Rieder’s illustrations have been described as elegant, funny, innovative and informative. She has created an Alice in Wonderland with a funny, new and timeless Alice.

Floor Rieder, born 1985, lives and works in Amsterdam. After graduating from the Academy of Art in Zwolle (ArtEZ), she made illustrations for several newspapers (Parool, De Groene Amsterdammer), magazines and books for adults and children. In 2013 she received a Goudeen Penseel for her illustrations for Het raadsel van alles wat leeft (The mystery of life) by Jan Paul Schutten, which was also recognized as the best children’s book of the year by Dutch booksellers. The cover of De avonturen van Alice in Wonderland en Alice in Spiegelland was chosen as the Most Beautiful Book Cover of 2014.

When the words in a tedious tome decide that life is just too dull, they escape. The world will never be the same again. The words jump into street signs, they leap onto shop signs, they decorate pathways and roadways and ponds. But one day they go too far … The Boring Book is a picture book, complete with miniature book inserts, that is as ingenious as it is delightful. A love of pattern and the feel of old books shine through in the early section. Bright pastel colours depict the innocence and fresh joy when the words escape. A mix of gouache and Photoshop is used to render the illustrations.

Vasanti Unka is a designer and illustrator based in Auckland. She is the illustrator of The Bean’s Story by Tatiana Aslund, a 2008 Storylines Notable book, and Hill & Hole by Kyle Mewburn. In 2011, Hill & Hole was shortlisted for the New Zealand Post Book Award, won the LIANZA (Library and Information Association of New Zealand Aotearoa) award for illustration and was also the first children’s book to win the Gerard Reid Award for Best Book at the PANZ (Publishers Association of New Zealand) Book Design Awards. Two craft books, Weird Rabbit and Friends and Star Boy and Friends were shortlisted for a LIANZA award in 2011. In 2014, The Boring Book was named as a Storylines Notable Book and was awarded a New Zealand Post award as well as the Margaret Mahy Best Book of the Year.
Samira protests when her teacher tells her that everybody has a skeleton inside them. "Not me!" Samira declares, and not her best friend Frida either. The rest of the day is horrible. To imagine that Samira and everyone around her is walking around with a skeleton inside them! It does not bear thinking about. Luckily her mother has some advice. She lays Samira down on the kitchen table and fetches a bucket and some tools. Surely Samira is happy now? A playful, witty and slightly scary picture book about coming to terms with the ugly truth. The illustrations are digitally coloured and enhanced pencil drawings on paper.

Camilla Kuhn, born 1975 in Oslo, has a degree in Graphic Design from Central Saint Martins College of Art and Design in London. She has written and illustrated a number of easy-reader books in addition to picture books, most of which have been translated to several languages. Her recent books include Hvordan Greger Grinebiter havnet i bitter duell og alt nesten ble helt rosa. (How Grumpy Gregory ended up in a bitter duel and things almost turned pink, 2007), Egil og pappa treffer elgen (Egil and dad meet the moose, 2009), Alvis, skurken og larvesøstreene som (nesten) ble spist (Alvis, the crook and the caterpillar sisters who (almost) got eaten, 2009), Ida og ulven (Ida and the wolf, 2011), Løs tann. (Wobbly tooth, 2011), Jon og flua (Jon and the fly, 2011), Ryddetid (Tidy-up time, 2012) and Gorm er en snill orm (Jake is a kind snake, 2013).
This book contains selected verses from five famous Russian poets – Ivan Bunin, Sergey Esenin, Alexander Blok, Apollon Maikov and Fedor Tyutchev – all depicting the beauty of the Russian nature in different seasons. The illustrations are made with mixed watercolours and gouache in the classic realist style of drawing.

Nikolay Ustinov was born in Ryazan in 1937. He graduated from Moscow Art School in 1955 and then studied drawing and art at the Surikov Moscow State Art Institute. He began working for numerous magazines for children and became one of the most renowned illustrators of children books about nature, animals, poetry, fairy tales and Russian classics; including books by Turgenev, Tolstoy and Bunin. Ustinov won the Golden Medal of the Russian Academy of Arts in 1996. He was honoured with the title of the People’s Artist of Russia (2000) and became the Laureate of the Fourth All-Russia Contest “The Red Sails” (2007). He has illustrated the books: In the taiga, near the Yenisei, 1982 by V. P. Astafiev, The foxes bread, 1996 by M.M. Prishvin, Tales by the Brothers Grimm, 2006, H.C. Andersen’s Fairy Tales for Children, 2010, and About animals and people, 2010 by K. Korovi.

Kaneza likes to observe nature and make discoveries. Together with his dog he explores the forest and the river. He watches the birds and butterflies until his mother calls him home for dinner. The simple and fresh illustrations, done in collage and acrylic, make a vivid and direct connection from the story and pictures to the reader.

Roberta Milanesi trained as an architect. She has made illustrations for exhibitions in libraries, cultural associations, for public events and in private galleries in Italy. She is co-founder of the female video-poetry collective named Collettivo Nie Wiem. Gira Amatsiko is her first illustrated book for children.
Kozliatka is two stories combined. The well-known story of disobedient children and the big bad wolf is written by Mária Rázusová-Martáková. The other story, written by Jaroslava Blažková, is about obedient children living a happy life, laughing about the stupid wolf with his muddled song. The illustration style is almost stage-like, with an extraordinary sense of colour and the artist walks a fine line of expressive tension. They are made in acrylic on cardboard. The illustrations combine the influence of medieval book illumination with the modern view of the artist.

In this wordless picture book, a boy follows a cat into a mysterious house. In each room, he finds bits of paper and the cat inviting him to go further. Right at the top of the house, there is a girl drawing. The illustrations dominate the space, and the greatly restricted colour scale gives the illustrations a unique beauty. Through light and dark contrasts and the transition through space, the feeling of mystery is increased: the reader wants to follow the boy, eventually revealing the mystery of the house. There is a clever play of perspective, but also an exceptional feeling for detail. The feeling for space leads the reader into an illusion of reality. The play of light and shade with the stylised figures of a child creates a dramatic dialogue between the real and imaginary worlds.

Maja Kastelic, born in 1981, completed painting studies at the Academy of Fine Arts and Design in Ljubljana in 2006 and then studied the philosophy and theory of visual culture at the Faculty of Humanities in Koper. She works as a painter and illustrator and has exhibited her paintings in individual and group exhibitions. Deček in hiša is her first picture book. She received the Hinko Smrekar Prize for the illustrations of this story in 2012 and the Hinko Smrekar Prize at the Slovenian Biennial of Illustration in 2014. Four of the illustrations from the book were selected for the Bologna Illustrators' Exhibition in 2015. This book received the Levstik Award and has been included in the IBBY project, Silent books. Final destination Lampedusa in 2015.
Daniel is sleeping over at his grandparents’ house for the first time. When it is bedtime and the lights go out Daniel hears strange and terrifying noises. They are coming closer and closer. What can they be? The illustrations for Rhinocephants on the Roof are created with mixed media. Elements are drawn with ink on paper, scanned and coloured using a combination of painting and texture scanned or photographed. These parts are then assembled in Photoshop and details, such as shadows and lighting, are added.

Dale Blankenaar is a picture book illustrator and designer. He studied graphic design with a focus on illustration at the Cape Peninsula University of Technology. After a year working as a promotions designer for Condé Nast he became a full-time illustrator. He has done illustration work for publishers in the trade and educational book sectors in South Africa as well as international projects. His style has evolved over the years but most important for him is to adjust his style to bring across the concept of the book and the story in the best possible way. Dale Blankenaar was awarded second prize at the Maskew Miller Longman Literature Awards and he was the South African winner in the World Wide Picture Book Illustration. His illustrated books include: Nuwe Kinderverseboek (New verse for children, 2009), I Readl and the Ek Lees Self! series, the Minki series, Dierestories 1,2,3 and 4 (Animal stories 1, 2, 3 and 4), Bleek Bennie se Woeste Hoes (Pale Bennie’s Fierce Cough), Wurms met tamatiesous (Worms and Tomato Sauce), Die Land Verby Donker (The Land Past Darkness), Little Bear’s Snowy Day, and the poetry anthologies KALEIDOSKOOP (Kaleidoscope) and Sprook of Spraak (Word or Tongue).

Daya and her twin sister Inge, together with one hundred other girls, are isolated in a school in the mountains without any contact with adults. The school is fully automated and the teachers are not real but holograms. The girls have been hidden there for years to ensure that they are the first generation of humans who survive the effects of a pandemic. Unexpectedly, a natural disaster forces the girls to leave the school and face the real world. In the outside world violence is a way of life, and nothing is what it seems. What is left of civilization is under the power of an authoritarian regime.

David Cirici Alomar was born in Barcelona in 1954. He writes in Catalan and is a member of PEN. He graduated in Catalan Philology and has been a professor of Catalan language and literature and also screenwriter for television. He is currently working in the field of communication and culture, while writing literature for children and young people as well as adults. His best-known novel is L’esquelet de la balena (The skeleton of the whale, 1987). He has also written Molsa (Moss, 2013), which is a prequel to Zona Prohibida and a further novel, La Decisió D’en Viggo (Vigo’s decision, 2015).
A lonely girl in her early teens is brooding. Why is she so different from everyone else? Does she even belong to other people? The girl is depicted as a rabbit with long, sad ears in contrast to the other human figures in the story. Her surroundings and her thoughts are captured using a mix of different techniques such as crayon, collage and photography in muted colours to create desolate pictures. The short texts and the pictures are knit closely together. The girl eventually gains the insight that a sense of community does exist and that she is not alone. She has a grandfather who probably had been a rabbit as well at one time. She realises that she is part of nature and part of the community no matter how insignificant and small she feels.

Anna Högglund, born 1958, is a Swedish writer and illustrator. She is an autodidact, though her seemingly naive style is very expressive and responsive to existential issues of life and death, vulnerability and loneliness. Simplicity is the mark of her illustrations. She uses crayon and Indian ink, as well as paint and photography. She made her debut as an illustrator of the folklore story Sagan om pannkakan (The Pancake Tale) in 1982. She is one of Sweden's most awarded illustrators and has worked with a number of Swedish writers, above all with Ulf Stark. Among the awards she has received are the Elsa Beskow plaque 1988 for the book Jaguaren (The jaguar), the Deutscher Jugendliteraturpreis 1994 for the German translation of Kan du vissla, Johanna? (Can you whistle, Johanna?) and the August award 1996 for Min syster är en ängel (My sister is an angel). Om detta talar man endast med kaniner was awarded the 2014 Nils Holgersson plaque.

It was a night with a full moon. The little girl was looking out the window of her house. Suddenly she heard a braying of a donkey. She thought it must have a problem, so she went to the village. Befriending the donkey, she admired the magnificent colours and designs of the donkey's beautiful saddle. Looking more closely she found a thorn in the side of the saddle. Then she understood that the thorn was hurting the donkey so she took it out. The tale has a happy end: the donkey was rid of its painful problem and the girl was very happy to be able to help the donkey.

Deniz Üçbaşaran was born in Istanbul in 1966. She graduated from the Faculty of Fine Arts of Marmara University and worked as an art director in advertising in Istanbul and Izmir. She currently works as a freelance illustrator in Izmir. Her first children’s book was published in 2003. Since then she has illustrated dozens of children’s books including Kûmûzî Kûş (Red bird, 2003), Limon Ağaçının Şarkısı (Lemon tree’s song, 2008), Barba ile Rabarba (Barba and Rabarba, 2012), Bir Tanecik Öğlun (My beloved son, 2013), Ulduz ve Kargalar (Uledez and the crows, 2013), Mevsimlere Güzelleme (Praising of seasons, 2012), Büyüyor Muyum Ne (Am I growing, or what? 2012) and Köküz Korkusuz Kafadar (Nine dauntless cronies, 2014). Piraye’nin bir günü was selected as Best Illustrated Story Book of 2014 by the Publications for Children and Youth Association.

This is a book with two stories made in the shape of an accordion. On one side the story is called La Taftahi hatha alkitab (Don’t open this book), and on the other side, the title is Hayna aftah hatha alkitab (When I open this book). The book triggers children’s imagination by including familiar characters from classical fairy-tales. It highlights the safe and familiar environment the child lives in, where fragrances are associated with joy and security.

Fereshteh Najafi was born in Tehran, Iran in 1974 and now lives in Genoa, Italy. She received her Bachelor’s degree in graphic design and Master’s degree in illustrations from Tehran Art University. She is a versatile artist who works with a wide range of colour and detail to create a unique style. Her illustrations have been described as imaginative and evocative. She has illustrations in more than twenty books for children from various publishers around the world and has also published three books as author and illustrator.
In a bleak city a young girl snatches an old woman’s bag, but she has to promise to give something in return. The bag is full of acorns and she must plant them all. So begins a journey that will transform the city and people’s lives forever. This is a book with a strong green message and a universal perspective as the girl journeys from western cities to places suggestive of the Middle East and Asia. The initial cityscapes are tonal greys, in pencil and wash, capturing the sombre, claustrophobic urban reality, reinforcing the urgency of the message of the story. Gradually, flashes of colour and light appear as the tiny green seedlings grow into trees, sprouting in the most unexpected places. The monochrome is replaced with vibrant colours as birds reappear and life becomes abundant, people interact and hope returns. The girl is portrayed in an endearing and quirky style as she softens and gains power through the story.

Laura Carlin lives and works in London. She is a graduate of the Royal College of Art where she won the Sheila Robinson Drawing Prize and the Quentin Blake Award twice. She contributes regularly to the Financial Times, Conde Nast Traveller, The New York Times, The Guardian and the New Statesman. She has illustrated the children’s books: The Silver Donkey (2004) by Sonya Hartnett, The Kites are Flying (2009) by Michael Morpurgo and The Iron Man (2005) by Ted Hughes, which won the V & A Illustration Award 2011. The Promise was shortlisted for the Greenaway Award 2015 and was a New York Times Best Illustrated Title 2014. Illustrations from A World of Your Own and The Iron Man 2014 won the 2015 BIB Grand Prix for Laura Carlin.

A lonely farmer is startled to see a circus train. A bump in the tracks bounces something into the air. Moving closer, the farmer finds a clown child with a red pointed hat and a happy white-painted face. Reluctantly, he takes the clown child to his humble home where an unlikely friendship develops. Side by side, they prepare for bed and the farmer tries to cheer the child up with playful antics using his black farmer’s hat. The next day, they perform farm chores, juggle eggs and have a picnic. When the circus family returns, the reader is left with bittersweet feelings, but at the turn of the last page, a joyful ending brings another surprise. The gouache and black pencil illustrations with soft golds, greys, and browns match the gentle mood of the story. Details in facial expressions and body language as well as the pacing through carefully placed panels and double page spreads are precise. Fraze’s journey of compassion spans generations and differences.

In 1981, Marla Frazee graduated from the Art Center College of Design in Pasadena with a degree in illustration. She has worked in the story department at Disney Studios, as a freelance illustrator and in commercial illustration including advertising, editorial, educational and mass-market publishing. She now illustrates children’s books and also teaches at the Art Center College of Design. She is the author-illustrator of Roller Coaster (2003), Walk On! (2006), Santa Claus the World’s Number One Toy Expert (2006), The Boss Baby (2010), and Boot & Shoe (2012). She was awarded Caldecott Honors for All the World (2009) and A Couple of Boys Have the Best Week Ever (2008). The Farmer and the Clown won the Boston Globe-Horn Book Award.
This carefully selected anthology gathers some of the best Venezuelan poems for children. The poems touch on everyday subjects such as animals, food, sea and bedtime. The artist describes her illustrations as a ‘digital collage’. Delicate, dynamic and colourful images are interwoven with the musicality of the language in the poems.

Ana Palermo Cáceres, born in 1966 in Caracas, is a designer and illustrator. She was Art Director of Ediciones Ekaré for many years and also worked in the publishing division of the Fine Arts Museum of Venezuela. She currently lives on the Canary Islands, in Spain. Retablillo de Navidad (Christmas Altarpiece, 2008) was her first picture book. She has also illustrated other picture books, including El elefante del circo (Circus elephant, 2011) and Detrás de la cortina azul (Behind the blue curtain, 2009).

Brazil, legend, myth

This book is a translation of a compilation of twelve Brazilian legends. As in traditional oral narration, the beloved stories of the folk characters, Saci, Yara the mermaid and Curupira are told set against a backdrop of wild nature: animals, flowers, fruits, sounds and the colours of the forest.

Alicia Salvi is a Professor of Literature at the University of Buenos Aires. She has coordinated writing workshops, written articles and created teaching materials for reading promotion, children’s literature and writing. She has trained teachers and librarians for about 20 years and has been part of the National Reading Plan of the Ministry of Education’s Office. Salvi has participated as a juror in numerous awards and national and international competitions including the Hans Christian Andersen Award in 2008 and 2010, Los Destacados de Alija (The highlights of ALIJA), Barco de Vapor award by Ediciones SM Argentina, and the First Novel Contest Young MERCOSUR (Comunicarte Publisher).
Limburg in the southeast of the Netherlands, with its gritty wind in the cornfields and its all-important cigar trade, is the setting for this bittersweet tale of a family that is trying to make ends meet. In Nine Open Arms Oma Mei’s grandchildren beg her to tell the story of each photograph in the “crocodile”, her battered suitcase. She tells the stories, but holds back some vital secrets of the past, later unlocked by the mysterious man living in the hedge. The translator has retained a strong local flavour in the story, using colloquial expressions and names such as Fing (short for Josephine), the narrator. The book is, however, universal in its themes: family, love and hatred, parenting, sibling loyalties and jealousies, betrayal, and the importance of stories. Nine Open Arms is a bewitching read with fresh and memorable language.

John Nieuwenhuizen is an Australian-based translator of Dutch and Flemish literature. From the early 1990s John has translated from Dutch a number of outstanding books, including Falling by Anne Provoost (Vallen), The Baboon King by Anton Quintana (De bavianenkoning), which won the Mildred Batchelder Award (USA) for Best Children’s Book in Translation, and The Book of Everything by Guus Kuijer (Het boek van al dingen), which was shortlisted for the Marsh Award (UK) for Children’s Literature in Translation. He translated several titles in the Radio Nederland ‘Radiobooks’ series. In 2007 he was awarded the New South Wales Premier’s Translation Prize and PEN Medallion. The US edition of Nine Open Arms was selected as a 2015 Mildred Batchelder Award Honor Book.

Poqrik arqayadstru is one of Frances Hodgson Burnett’s most famous children’s books. As a young child Sara Crew is brought from India to London to study in Miss Minchin’s boarding school where she becomes a favourite of everyone. Captain Crew, Sara’s father, is a young, generous and very rich man. However, soon he loses all his property and dies in India. Sara is thrown into poverty and for a few years she is made to teach the younger pupils of the school, during all this time she is starved and abused by the heartless headmistress. With her kind heart, vivid imagination and courage, Sara overcomes all the difficulties and proves that she has remained a real princess.

In the story Ich heisse Parvana, war is raging in Afghanistan as a coalition of Western forces tries to oust the Taliban. Parvana’s father has died, and her mother, sister, and brother have gone to a faraway wedding, not knowing what has happened to the father. Parvana doesn’t know where they are, but sets out to find them by masquerading as a boy. Her journey becomes more perilous as the bombs begin to fall. Making her way across the desolate Afghan countryside, she meets other children who are strays from the war: an infant boy in a bombed-out village, a nine-year-old girl who believes she has magical powers over land mines, and a boy with one leg. The children travel together because it is easier than being alone. As they forge their own family in the war zone, their resilience, imagination and luck help them survive.

Brigitte Rapp trained as a translator (English and Russian to German) at the University of Vienna. She has been a freelance translator of fiction and non-fiction since 1988 and Director of the Austrian Literary Translators’ Association since 1992. Her translations for young people include: Amani, das Hirtenmädchen (The Shepherd’s Granddaughter by Anne Laurel Carter, 2011), Annsichtssache (Bifocal by Deborah Ellis and Eric Walters, 2009) and Das Radiumädchen (The Heaven Shop, 2006) and Am Meer wird es kühl sein (Mud City, 2004) both by Deborah Ellis.

He is the perennial new kid in school, the one few notice and nobody thinks much about. He shows up in a new high school, in a new town, under a new name, makes few friends and does not stay long. Just long enough, however, for someone in his new friend’s family to die of ‘natural causes’. Mission accomplished, Boy Nobody disappears, and moves on to the next target. But when he is assigned to the mayor of New York City, things change. The mayor reminds him of his father, the daughter seems so much like him. When memories and questions surface, his handlers at The Program are watching. Because somewhere, deep inside Boy Nobody, is somebody: the kid he once was, the teen who wants normal things, like a real home and parents, a young man who wants out. And he just might want those things badly enough to sabotage The Program’s next mission.

Margot van Hummel was born in 1956 and is a journalist, copywriter and translator. She has translated several young adult novels by Jessica Khoury, including Origin, (2012) and Vitro (2014), and is working on the Unknown Assassin series, by Allen Zadoff, of which Boy Nobody is the first book – now retitled I am the Weapon.
Anne lives by the seashore at Cape Cod. Her uncle’s family comes to live in the neighbourhood in a house that is said to be haunted. Her cousin, Tania, is a strange girl, always naughty to Anna with no particular reason. When Tania’s mother dies, Tania becomes more uncommunicative and secretive and is not willing to stay alone with her father. The stranding of whales and the arrival of a whale expert finally allows her to open her heart and say what is hurting her: her father abuses her! In the first part of the book, Tania is aggressive and denies her problem, but slowly we discover the dramatic situation she has endured. First written 25 years ago, the theme of this book has, unfortunately, always been with us.

Born in 1966, Emmanuèle Sandron lives in Luxembourg. She did her studies at the translation school in Mons, Belgium and translates from English, Dutch and German into French. She began her career by translating medical articles, reports from European institutions and music programmes. She first published her own two novels before translating works from other writers. She currently writes her own stories and translates literature for young people as well as for adults. What is very important for her is the music of the language she translates. If she can find the right tone, then the rest is easy. Her most recent translations include Arno et le voleur de Coeur (Arno and the heart thief by Dirk Niedlandt, 2011).

This book is an invitation to reflect on the consequences of war and its effect on the next generations. Stefano lives with his mother, shrouded in mourning since the death of his father in the World War I. With no prospects in Italy he decides at a young age to immigrate to Argentina and then fetch his mother. In a narrative that moves between the past and the present, Stefano tells his life story to Ema, his wife and the woman with whom, after many years in Argentina, he foresees the possibility of finally living in a family. His mother has died and he finds no reason to go back to his homeland. By recounting these memories, he can choose his destiny. As he says to Ema: Sarà forse l’addio... to go on living, because to live, one must learn to leave the past behind.

CiCi is a little rabbit and although she’s getting bigger every day, she is sure that she will never, ever be too big for her cloth. She cannot sleep or do anything without her piece of cloth, but one day she accidentally learns to let go of her attachment to the cloth. Along the way, with the support of her family, she acquires new experiences and eventually realizes that what she regarded as precious before is not really relevant now. This colourful and attractive picture book tells the charming story of how CiCi learns to let go – through a simple, gentle message about growing up.

Kreng Panha is a student at Paññāsāstra University of Cambodia where he is involved with the project Drop Everything And Read or D.E.A.R. Through this project he has been exposed to a wider world of reading materials beyond his own required subjects of reading. Khnhom Sralanh Kansaeng Khnhom is his first published translation work and it has quickly found a place on many bookshelves for Cambodian children. With the success of his first work, he is determined to continue translating children’s literature.

Hélène has been inexplicably ostracized by the girls who were once her friends. Her loving mother is too tired to be any help. Fortunately, Hélène has one consolation, Charlotte Brontë’s Jane Eyre. Hélène identifies strongly with Jane’s tribulations, and when she is lost in the pages of this wonderful book, she is able to ignore her tormentors. But when Hélène is humiliated on a class trip in front of her entire grade, she needs more than a fictional character to see herself as a person deserving of laughter and friendship. At camp, Hélène encounters a fox, a beautiful creature with which she shares a moment of connection. When another girl frightens the fox away, insisting that it must be rabid, Hélène’s despair becomes even more pronounced. This emotionally honest novel reveals the casual brutality of which children are capable; but it also assures readers that redemption can be found through connecting with another, whether the other is a friend, a fictional character or even, amazingly, a fox.

Christelle Morelli is a literary translator and elementary school teacher. She has translated and co-translated several works of fiction, non-fiction, graphic novels and children’s books. Susan Ouriou is an award-winning writer, editor and literary translator (French-Spanish-English) with over thirty translations and co-translations of fiction, non-fiction, children’s and young adult literature to her credit. Their English to French co-translations include Le chandail d’Amos by Janet Lunn (Amos’s Sweater, 2014) and Chin Chiang et la danse du dragon by Ian Wallace (Chin Chiang and the Dragon’s Dance, 2014).
Amor is the story of an orphan girl who is different from her peers. Lonely and a bit unusual, the world suggests to her that she is not worthy of love. The story explores some of mankind’s most profound themes: tolerance, understanding, loneliness, and the possibility of loving one another in spite of differences. The dialogue between the text, illustration and the book design (cuttings, perforations, and book flaps) permits an overlapping of colours, perspectives and movement, all within a cinematographic technique that creates a feeling of confinement, loneliness and belittlement.

Mariana Saúl is an experienced translator who was born in Argentina. She has given workshops about translating social sciences, specializing in Spanish and French to English and vice versa. She translates works in the social sciences for publishing houses such as Fondo de Cultura Económica in Mexico, George Allen & Unwin in the UK, Clave intellectual in Argentina and Hueders in Chile.

One morning Kasper’s grandmother is sitting in the sun outside her house, grinding coffee in her new musical coffee mill, a birthday gift invented by Kasper and his best friend Seppel. Suddenly robber Hotzenplotz, hearing the music, surprises Grandmother and steals her coffee mill. Sergeant Dimplemoser hears Grandmother’s cries and comes to her aid, but Hotzenplotz has evaded the useless police for years. So Kasper and Seppel vow to catch the robber themselves. But catching robbers is not as easy as all that. Kasper and Seppel soon discover that even the best-laid plans can be foiled, especially when Hotzenplotz enlists the help of his wicked magician friend, Petrosilius Zackleman, a gluttonous villain with a weakness for fried potatoes.

Cheng Wei graduated from Nanjing University with a major in Chinese in 1982. In 1992 she moved to Hamburg, Germany where she currently works as a producer at a German TV station and on China-Germany cultural exchange activities. As a well-known children’s writer she has published several novels such as Children from Foreign Countries and The Girl’s Red Hairpin, which have been awarded national honours in China. Versos de no sé qué is an anthology of the work of six contemporary Portuguese poets. All of the poems work with simple themes that appeal to children: the delight found in flavours and food, the intensity and joy of colours, the curiosity generated by animals such as ants, seagulls and cats, the clatter produced by rain, the sounds of musical instruments and feelings such as love and contentment. Easy to understand, the poetry creates empathy within the reader and encourages the enjoyment of words and language. The translation shows a clean and careful handling of sense, musicality and structure of the poems.

Maria del Sol Peralta is a preschool educator specialized in music and literature for children. She produces workshops, drama, books and music and has worked on reading promotion and artistic expression for children for educational and cultural institutions. (Animal concert), Tomatina Curatodo cura nada sin amor, (Tomatina cures nothing without love), Sana que sana; una canción para cada ocasión (Heal, heal; a song for every occasion) and ¡Arre, borriquita! desde entonces por siempre... (Giddy-up, little donkey; since then and forever). She worked as children and youth's editor and directed the School Reading Plan at Random House Mondadori, Colombia.

Erich Kästner re-creates his own childhood in Dresden with many lovely, both sad and humorous, stories about his mother and father, their ancestors and relatives. There are chapters about his schooling, children's plays and everyday life, but also chapters about much more serious things, such as the bombing of Dresden in 1945.

Ivan Ott was born in Karlovac in 1948. He graduated from the University of Zagreb in Slavic languages and literature and comparative literature and later received a Fulbright fellowship. A publisher, editor and translator, he has been editor-in-chief and director in several publishing houses in Zagreb (Liber, Vjesnik, Školska knjiga). He is the translator of more than fifty adult and children's books from English and German to Croatian, including: Jorge Luis Borges, The Book of Imaginary Beings (1980), G. K. Chesterton, Apollo's Eye (1988), Frances Hodgson Burnett, The Secret Garden (2002), Somerset Maugham, The Rain and Other Stories (2002) and Edith Wharton, The House of Mirth (2003).
Many Czech readers know these grotesque texts from former translations. These texts are not primarily aimed at children, but rather were created as experiments or provocations; they are, nonetheless, irresistibly attractive to children. The translator has used all means of rich expression to create playful verses with extraordinary invention and feeling. Sometimes German originals are reproduced with great precision; sometimes they are imaginatively transformed in order to be approachable and clear for readers. The translation deftly mimics the child’s way of thinking and perception of language using simplicity and rhythmicity. Such thought-provoking texts are rare and especially unusual are texts that inspire creativity and originality, as well as the discovery of the hidden potential of the Czech language.

Radek Malý, born in 1977, is a Czech poet, author of children’s books and translator. He completed Czech and German studies at Palacký University in Olomouc. He now lives in Prague where he works as a university lecturer, a translator to and from German and as an editor. He has written four collections of poetry, has published five poetry books and seven books for children including Kamarádi z abecedy (Alphabet friends, 2012), Listonoš vítr (Wind the postman, 2011), Kam až smí smích (Where giggle can go, 2009), and František z kaštanu, Anéžka ze slunečnic. (František of the chestnut, Anéžka of the sunflower, 2006).
The small crocodile feels lonely and would like to have a friend. He would like to become friends with the very tall giraffe, but the giraffe does not seem to notice him. Finally they meet and become very good friends. They would like to spend more time together but the crocodile is small and the giraffe is tall and neither house is convenient. However, because they love each other so much, they find wonderful solutions for all their problems.

When seventeen-year-old Lumikki Andersson walks into her school's darkroom and finds a stash of blood stained money, her world is turned upside-down. She is swept into a whirlpool of events as she helps to trace the origins of the money. Events turn deadly when evidence points to dirty police officers and a notorious and brutal drug kingpin. As Lumikki loses control of her carefully constructed world, she discovers that she has been blind to the forces swirling around her – and she’s running out of time to set them right. When she sees the stark red of blood on snow, it may be too late to save her friends or herself. This is the first book in the well-known Lumikki Andersson (Snow White) trilogy.

Tyttö joka putosi Satumaan alle ja juhli varjojen valtakunnassa.
(Orig. English: The Girl Who Fell Beneath Fairyland and Led the Revels There by Catherynne M. Valente)
Helsinki: Gummerus, 2014, 353pp; 135×200mm
Counterworld, adventure

Tyttö joka putosi Satumaan alle ja juhli varjojen valtakunnassa is the second book of the Fairyland series by Catherynne Valente. The girl, September, arrives in Fairyland and learns that the inhabitants have been losing their shadows and their magic to the world of Fairyland Below. This underworld is ruled by Halloween, the hollow Queen, who is September’s shadow. The new Queen does not want to return the shadows. This translation successfully recreates the wordplay and anarchic touch of the original work.

Sarianna Silvonen works as translator and archaeologist. Her experience and expertise in fantasy literature and her courageous and innovative use of the Finnish language are visible in her translation work, especially in the puns and neologisms. Since 2006, she has translated short stories for the Tähtivaeltaja magazine and independent fantasy/science fiction short stories. Her translation of the first book in the Fairyland series, Tyttö joka purjehti Satumaan ympäri itse rakentamallaan laivalla, (The girl who circumnavigated Fairyland in a ship of her own making, 2009) was nominated for the Tähtifantasia Award, in 2014 given for the best translation in fantasy literature.

He knows he has to survive at all cost. Over and over I tell myself one thing: never fall down. Arn Chorn-Pond is eleven years old when the Khmer Rouge invades Cambodia. He is separated from his family and assigned to a labour camp to work in the rice paddies under the blazing sun. Death is everywhere: children die from hunger, malaria, exhaustion, and prisoners are killed on a regular basis. When the soldiers ask if any child can play an instrument, he volunteers, even though he has never played a note in his life. He is well aware that this is his chance to survive. He quickly masters the revolutionary songs the soldiers demand and then begins to steal food to feed the other children. He is even obliged to become Khmer Rouge himself. McCormick listened to Arn Chorn-Pond’s testimony for two years in order to accurately tell his story. The tone is distant and respects his particular way of telling the unspeakable. This is a strong and powerful book, well served by Jean-François Ménard’s fluid and truthful translation.

Jean-François Ménard was born in Paris in 1948. He studied philosophy and worked as an assistant director for many film directors. He loved telling stories on film sets, so he decided to become a writer. He is also an accomplished translator, translating works by Roald Dahl (Le Bon Gros Géant, The Big Friendly Giant, 1984), Malcolm Bosse (La rêve de la forêt, Deep Dream of the Rain Forest, 1995), Louis Sachar (Le passage, Holes, 2000), the Artemis Fowl series by Eoin Colfer and the Harry Potter series by J.K. Rowling.
In this novel set in Argentina in the 1970s the narrator looks back on the events of her childhood and early youth. As the sheltered daughter of a well-to-do family from Buenos Aires, she lives in her own idyllic world at her parent's weekend home in the country, often roaming about with two local children. As the three friends grow older, their bonds loosen and they grow apart. Unaware of the great dangers that her friends face, the narrator lives in a different world as if in a glass bubble that protects her from social and political realities. Then the terror of the military regime, to which her friends fall prey, comes crashing over her life like a natural disaster. This translation accurately evokes the Argentinian images for young German readers and captures the unpretentious, fresh language and narrative perspective of the original text.

Ilse Layer was born in 1958 and lives in Berlin. She studied German language and literature, Latin American culture and Romance languages and literature. She worked for cultural programmes and in a publishing house before becoming a freelance translator for Spanish and English. She has translated texts from authors from nearly all Spanish-speaking countries, including works by the Spaniard, Juan José Millás, the Mexican, Verónica Murguía, and the Argentineans, Silvia Schujer and Graciela Montes. Wie ein unsichtbares Band was awarded the Deutscher Jugendliteraturpreis in 2014. In the Jury's judgment, “the flowing rhythm and the sensual quality of the descriptions are very well captured in this translation.”

August Pullman was born with a facial deformity that, up until now, has prevented him from going to a mainstream school. Starting fifth grade at Beecher Prep, he wants nothing more than to be treated as an ordinary kid – but his new classmates cannot get past Auggie’s extraordinary face. Wonder begins from Auggie’s point of view, but soon switches to include the view of his classmates, his sister, her boyfriend and others. These perspectives converge into a portrait of one community's struggle with empathy, compassion and acceptance.

Marisa De Castro was born in Athens. Between 1973 and 1982 she lived in Paris where she studied education and literature for children and adolescents at the Sorbonne. Since her return to Greece she has been teaching history and literature to primary school children. She has organized educational programmes in museums and archaeological sites, written several children's books on history and art and has translated children's fiction. Since 1998 she has written critical reviews on children's and adolescent's books for newspapers. In 2006, Short stories of the archaeological museum, co-authored with Panos Valavanis, won the National Book Award for non-fiction. In 2012, Walking on the Byzantine era won the IBBY Greece Award for non-fiction.
The book presents the biography of the well-known Haitian singer and musician, Lumane Casimir. Coming from a very poor family, Lumane became famous for her marvellous voice. The story is told in an interactive way: a grandmother reveals the details of Lumane’s struggles in life through a series of questions asked by a child. The Creole translation accurately reflects the original French story, showing how people were at first cruel to Lumane until they recognized she had exceptional talent.

The author-translator, Evelyne Trouillot, was born in 1954 in Port au Prince. She has published more than ten books in Creole and French and many excerpts from her work have been used in textbooks. She has written in several genres from poetry through to drama and has received many distinctions including the Beaumarchais award and Prix Soroptimist. Her works include Rosalie l’infame (The infamous Rosalie, 2003), Le Bleu de l’île (The blue of the island, 2005) and La mémoire aux abois (Memory at Bay, 2010), which received the Prix Carbet de la Caraïbe et du Tout-Monde.
In this first book of the Divergent trilogy, the story takes place in a post-apocalyptic Chicago where the survivors have been divided into five factions. Each year all sixteen year olds take a special test to see which faction is best suited for them. After receiving their results, the teenagers have to decide whether they choose to remain with their family’s faction or transfer to a new one. Beatrice’s test results are inconclusive and indicate an aptitude for three factions. She is warned never to tell anyone about this because this means that she is a Divergent. Her choice will affect the society as a whole.

Dystopia, choice

Farzad Farbod was born in 1968 in Kermanshah and completed his studies in the field of translation from English to Persian. He first concentrated on the translation of poetry but quickly gained recognition for his translations of the children’s mystery Hank the Cowdog series by John R. Erickson, as well as literary fiction, horror and fantasy. Farbod attempts to stay as close to the original as possible in his translations and allow the characters to express their identities in all their diversity. He has translated the works of Philip Pullman, Philip Ardagh and Neil Gaiman. Farzad Farbod is now a translator, editor and manager of the Pariyan Publishing Company.
Hakol Befnokho is a book of one hundred and thirty rhymed poems written and drawn by Shel Silverstein, the author of The Giving Tree, Where the Sidewalk Ends, Falling Up, The Missing Piece and many other books. The poems are sophisticated as well as funny and the drawings enrich the poems and give them another perspective. The characters in the poems are children, adults, animals and imaginary strange creatures that go wild and are capable of everything.

Noam Partom, born 1986 in Tel Aviv, is a poet and performance artist. She is a graduate of Tel Aviv University’s creative writing programme, the Helicon Poetry School and the Rimon Academy for Jazz and Contemporary Music. In 2010 she launched an online video poetry project, Poetube, which gained much public attention and acclaim. Her debut poetry book Setting the Water on Fire was published in 2012 and received the Ramat-Gan Literature Award 2014. Her translation of Hakol Befnokho has received accolades from readers and critics alike.

This book is the fourth in the series of five books about the little girl Polleke, written by Guus Kuijer. In this novel Polleke learns what it means to find herself and the difference between weakness and sensitivity. Above all she learns to forgive and discovers that when someone dies, it does not mean the end of love. The story is told in a simple and profound style, ironic and authentic.

Valentina Freschi was born in Udine, but currently lives in Berlin. She studied in Trieste and received a Bachelor’s degree in translation and a Master’s degree in technical and literary translation. She is a professional translator from German and Dutch into Italian and, since 2010, a reader for the publishing houses Fazi, Feltrinelli, Iperborea, Ponte alle Grazie and Salani. She has translated the first four books of the Polleke series by Guus Kuijer published in Italy as Per sempre insieme, amen (2012), Mio padre e’ un PPP (2013), Un’improvvisa felicità (2014) and Con il vento verso il mare, as well as children’s books by other Dutch authors such as Sieb Posthum, Marcel Roijjaards and Arnon Grunberg.
In 1939 an unusual bookstore started business in Harlem, Manhattan: a bookstore specialized in books written by, for and about black people. This story is a fictionalized biography of Lewis H. Michaux who opened the National Memorial African Bookstore in Harlem with an inventory of five books. In those days, black people were not thought to be readers, but Lewis dedicated his life to deliver books and knowledge to his people against all odds. The author, Vaunda Micheaux Nelson, is the great-niece of Lewis Michaux and currently a librarian at a public library in New Mexico. The translation is precise and flawless and skilfully captures the complicated and subdivided architecture of this novel.

Ko Hyang-ok is a professional translator of Japanese children's literature. She majored in Japanese literature at university. After graduate school, she went to Japan to study Japanese language and culture in Nagoya. She has translated many Japanese children's literary works by renowned Japanese authors especially, Shuzo Oka, whose stories of children with disabilities are widely loved in Korea. She has introduced a wide genre of Japanese literature, such as picture books, fiction and novels to Korean children. She has a reputation of translating works very delicately and in ways that are easy-to-understand for children.
Fourteen-year-old Emma Gloria lives in Helsinki and writes about her dreams and fears—things she cannot share with anyone else. She has created a parallel world that reflects all the things that happen to her in real life. For quite a lengthy and painful time, she finds herself unable to bring the two worlds together and thus come to terms with reality. She has several ambivalent relationships: with a friend who sometimes turns into an enemy; with her piano teacher who upsets her with his demonstrations of affection; with her mother, whose attempts to help she rejects, and with the therapist her mother has found for her. And yet gradually, one step at a time, she reaches the point where the two worlds can become one, making it possible for Emma Gloria to find her inner balance.

Mudite Treimane, born 1948, graduated from Latvian University Faculty of Foreign Languages. Besides her work at the National Library of Latvia she has been translating Swedish, Norwegian and Danish literature into Latvian since 1980. She has translated approximately 70 titles. Her greatest interest has always been in children’s literature. She has translated sixteen books of Astrid Lindgren and eight books of Tove Jansson. In 2007 she wrote a Latvian biography of Astrid Lindgren. Saulesplava, her translation of Sunnanäng (Sun meadow) by Astrid Lindgren was selected for the IBBY Honour List in 2010. She has twice won the Jānis Baltvilks Prize in Children’s Literature, in 2009 and in 2014 for Emma Glorija un sarkanā Ilgu grāmata.
The story is set in World War I and tells about an English soldier who is blinded during the war. He tries to escape from the horrors of war and reach his home on the other side of the English Channel. One bright morning, a little French girl named Coco and her older sister Marcelle find him in the woods. They take care of the soldier, bring him food and then, with help of their brother Pascal, plan his journey back home. In return for their kindness the soldier tells four stories all of which are connected to the tiny silver donkey he carries everywhere for luck and hope. The stories, as is the novel, are about bravery, dedication and sensibility. Finely drawn children's characters, clear and expressive narration and the significant anti-war message have made this book a classic.

Viltaras Alksnėnas is the pen name of Kęstutis Urba. Born in 1954, he graduated from Vilnius University and in 1978 became a teacher in the Faculty of Philology at the University. His main teaching subject is children's literature and upon discovering that many of the classics of children's literature were not available in Lithuanian, he began to translate them. His first translation was The Secret Garden by Frances Hodgson Burnett and thereafter, Anne of Green Gables by L.M. Montgomery, Tuck Everlasting by Natalie Babbitt, Tom's Midnight Garden by Philippa Pearce, The Giver by Lois Lowry, The Little Bookroom by Eleanor Farjeon and The Miraculous Journey of Edward Tulane by Kate DiCamillo. His translations have been reprinted several times and four of them have been recognised as the Best Translation of the Year by IBBY Lithuania. His translation of The Complete Tales by Beatrix Potter was included in the 2012 IBBY Honour List.

Common to most exciting Greco-Roman myths is tragedy: ruined kingdoms, deaths decreed by fate, full lineages disgraced and of course, betrayed loves. In the twenty-one poems, written in the form of letters, which make up this piece, Ovid explores the pain of women who suffered betrayal, abandon and oblivion at the hands of the great heroes of classical mythology. These poems reveal the feminine perspective of some of the histories that forged western culture. The collection has been edited to enable a clear and reader-friendly approach and the contextual information is clear and concrete.

Darío Zárate Figueroa was born in 1987 in Mexico City. He studied classical literature at the National Autonomous University of Mexico and now works as a translator and proofreader. He has translated several works from English, French, Portuguese and Latin into Spanish. These works include Jules Verne's The Carpathian Castle; poems by Fernando Pessoa and Vinicius de Morães for Carlos Drummond de Andrade's anthology Vuelo de voces; Charles and Mary Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare (2015), and The Imperfect Life of T. S. Eliot by Lyndall Gordon as a joint translation with Jorge Aguilar Mora.
This book is a collection of Finnish fairy tales that help children overcome problems and help them understand the beauty of the universe. The stories are social (Whip musician), tales of heroes (Little Sampo), lyrical (Winter fairy) and tales of animals (Two and two is four). Finland and Mongolia have similarities in language and culture and they share the oral tradition of stories told by wise ancestors during the long winter nights.

Sukhbaatar Tserendorj was born in 1945. He worked for many years as an editor of children’s literature in the Ministry of Education and currently works as a teacher of English composition at the Mongolian University of Education. He is a specialist in translating lyrical works of children’s literature and has translated children’s literature from Russian for over twenty years. He has translated more than 30 books for children and adults.

One day sixteen-year-old Linus is kidnapped and locked up in an underground bunker. From that moment on he and five other people are terrorized by someone who watches and controls them – someone who rewards and punishes them whenever he likes. Linus starts writing in a diary about what happens to them and about the different reactions of the other people to the unpredictable actions of the unknown kidnapper. His imprisonment is a reason for Linus to reflect on his life and the choices he has made. Bunkerdagboek is a horrifying book that gives insight into how individuals cope with desperate situations.

Jenny de Jonge taught Dutch language and literature at Het Stedelijk Gymnasium in Haarlem for over twenty years. During the same period she started her own publishing company for juvenile books and won many awards for her books. She also worked as a publisher at the publishing house Gottmer and became a translator and advisor for children's and young adult books in 2003. She has translated several young adult classics by authors such as Meg Rosoff, Linzi Glass, John Boyne, Jenny Valentine and Kevin Brooks. Wat ik was, her translation of What I was by Meg Rosoff was selected for the 2010 IBBY Honour List.
Someone is stealing nuts from the forest, and it is up to Detective Gordon to catch the thief! Unfortunately, solving this crime means standing in the snow and waiting for a long time... If only Detective Gordon had an assistant – someone small, fast, and clever – to help solve this terrible case. Then he would be able to go back to doing what he does best: thinking, eating cakes, drinking tea, and stamping important papers. Detective Gordon: The First Case is a brilliant detective story by one of Sweden’s top children’s writers.

Ngā Ki is a lively, imaginative and quirky picture book that shows the warm special bond between a father and his daughter and their creative bedtime stories. As the father tucks his daughter into bed, he tells her fantastically imaginative stories about the keys on his key ring and what they unlock – from a zippenburger that takes him to work, to a rocket to collect space noodles, a treasure box in the jungle, a paddock where he rides a woolly mammoth that only eats yellow food. The story encourages children to use their own imagination to predict and build their own stories about each key. Children enjoy spotting the toys tucked away in the illustrations that inspire the father’s imaginative stories.

Kawata Teepa is of Tūhoe and Whakatōhea affiliation and comes from Rūātoki, a valley in New Zealand’s North Island. He is an award-winning translator, providing translations for Huia publishing house that specialises in Maori-language publications, as well as educational works published by the New Zealand Ministry of Education for Children in Māori-language schools. In Jeg gir deg sola we see the world through the eyes of the twins Noah and Jude. They are very close but also very different from one another. At thirteen, Noah is an awkward loner consumed by drawing, painting and thoughts about the boy next door, while his sister Jude is a beautiful, daredevil surfer who hangs out with the cool kids. Three years later, however, Jude and Noah are barely speaking, and their roles seem reversed. Now, Jude is an introverted art student while Noah is outgoing and has given up drawing. Something has happened, and in alternating chapters each twin reveals a different piece of the puzzle. The story that unfolds is about love, family, loss, jealousy and art, and the slightly nutty characters of Jeg gir deg sola make it a truly unforgettable one.

Hilde Stubhaug was born in Oslo in 1973. She has a degree in history of ideas and Nordic literature from the University of Oslo. She has worked as an editor, critic and professional reader and, since 2007 as a full time translator of fiction, mainly from English. In addition to Jandy Nelson, she has translated books by Lauren Oliver, Rebecca James, Simone Elkeles, David Vann, Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie and Alexandar Hemon, among others.

Kimana wants to marry the Virgin of Heaven. So the young man writes a letter asking for her hand from her father, the Lord of the Sun. As he is unable to get to heaven, he asks a rabbit, a deer and a falcon to deliver the letter but none of them accepts. Finally, he asks the frog, who is willing to try. The frog waits for the ladies who provide water to the Lord of the Sun to come to earth. He hides in one of the water jars and is lifted to heaven. The father writes a letter asking for a bundle of money for his daughter and the frog hides in a jar and returns to earth. The frog gets the money from Kimana and returns to heaven in the same way. When Kimana is unable to go to heaven to claim his bride he asks the frog to go for him. The Virgin of Heaven realizes that the frog is the one who delivers the messages back and forth and decides to marry the frog instead of Kimana.

Wasim Kurdi was born in Jerusalem in 1960. He has a Bachelor's degree in Arabic language and literature and a Masters degree in drama. He is a writer and poet, working at the Qattan Foundation as Director and Practitioner in Drama in Education. He is also a chief editor of the periodical Ru'a Tarbawiyah. He has published poetry collections and written songs, plays (Natreen Faraj and huzzairah) and lyrical and dancing shows (Marj Ibn Amer, Ijbeineh and fawanees).
Nine-year-old Bruni has a lot of relatives. Her father had another family before he met her mother. Some time after Bruni was born, her parents separated and now her father has a new wife and children. Bruni honestly and wittily describes her big and complicated family. Semia 3×1 is a very unusual and very necessary book for many children and parents in modern families. This family is proof that, with love, even the most complicated family relations gradually become easier.

Tatiana Voronkina, born 1933, is a much-honoured translator of Hungarian literature and culture. She is the author of more than 300 translations from Hungarian into Russian including works from István Erkeny, Mór Jókai, Istvan Krudi, Mihaly Babics, Dejo Kostolany, Endre Illes, Istvan Szabo, Jenő Rejytei and many others. For her professional skills, Voronkina was awarded the Order of Labour Glory gold class, the Small Cross Order of Merit of the Hungarian Republic, the Badge of Honour for Socialist Culture, the medal Pro Cultura Hungarica, the Artienda literary award and the Milan Fust Prize, Hungary’s highest literary honour. Her recent translations of children’s books include works by Pal Bekes (Treasures of the son of the white horse street, 2010, Apology for a magician, 2011 and Conqueror of fear, 2012), Eva Janikowski (If I were grown-up …, 2012 and Who does this child take after?, 2012), Sandor Canyadi (Mouse, seen the life, 2013) and Judith Berg (The adventures of mischievous mouse, 2013).
Bog Child is set in the 1980s during the Troubles of Northern Ireland. It features an 18-year-old boy who must study for exams but at the same time worries about his brother's hunger strike in prison and the stress of being a courier for the provisional IRA. At night he dreams of a murdered girl whose body he discovered in a bog. The nearness of death impinges on his coming of age and early adulthood: he is resolved to leave his family and his troubled country to study medicine in Scotland. In spite of its apparent bleakness, uplifting messages permeate this outstanding award-winning novel. The author, Siobhan Dowd (†2007) was an outspoken human rights activist and advocate of unprivileged children and their right to literacy.

Tina Mahkota, born 1964, is a freelance literary translator from English and German. She studied Comparative Literature and English and was a lecturer at the University of Ljubljana and is now a full-time literary translator. Her bibliography comprises nearly 280 works, mostly translations of novels, essays and poems by many classical and contemporary writers in English and German, as well as translations of 60 plays produced by professional Slovenian theatres. She is the recipient of several international residential grants and two Slovenian awards for translation for adult books, including the Sovre Prize for The Dubliners by James Joyce in 2013. Her translations for children and young readers include books by Edwin Moser (Der karierte Uhu, 1996), Dick King-Smith (The Sheep-Pig, 1997), Christine Nöstlinger (Der TV-Karl, 1996), Carl Voight (When She Hollers, 1997), Thomas Jeier (Hilferuf aus dem Internet, 2000) and Antje Damm (Der Besuch, 2015).

Folk tale, cosmology, animals

This folklore story collection offers a feast of enjoyment for young readers: ten enchanting tales, steeped in the richness of the African oral tradition. Where did the first stories in the world come from? How did dlittle Tortoise win the respect of all the other animals? Who was Nanana bo Sele and what happened when she built her house in the middle of the animal’s road? Why was young Crocodile so determined to get hold of the Monkey’s heart? These oral stories, passed on to the author by her grandmother, have been recorded and written with inimitable aplomb and accompanied by lively illustrations by various South African artists.

Sindiwe Magona is writer in residence at the University of Western Cape. She is an author, storyteller, motivational speaker, actor, isiXhosa teacher and translator. She has written over 120 children’s books, folktales, stage plays, books of short stories, including Living, Loving, and Lying Awake at Night (1994), autobiography, biography, novels, radio plays and a screenplay. She writes in English and isiXhosa and translates for various media, including film. She was awarded the Order of iKhamanga by the President of South Africa in 2011. Her youth novel, Mother to Mother (2000) is required school reading in South Africa. Her latest novel, Seriti sa Sechaba (Chasing the tails of my father’s cattle) was published in 2015.

Theft, jail, contrition, freedom

Baile le Moketa is a book for children as well as art lovers and collectors. It was written and illustrated in 1973 by Gerard Sekoto (1913–1993),
one of South Africa’s
most famous artists, acknowledged to be the father figure of contemporary South African art and widely thought of as an iconic and inspirational figure. Baile le Moketa tells the tale of two troublesome dogs whose thieving ways take them to the far-away town of Porcupine Hills. Here they meet all sorts of interesting characters but continue their mischief until Billy Boy is caught red-handed and sent to jail. In jail he dreams about the kindness of others and comes to realise that good deeds are the true measure of freedom. This story is a timeless and engaging story that retains Gerard Sekoto’s unique spirit and imagination.

Selloane Khosi worked for several years as a seSotho translator, language advisor and producer for the South African Broadcasting Corporation in television and radio. She started working as a freelance seSotho translator in 1999 and has facilitated translations and productions in all South African languages and in a variety generies including teaching materials, textbooks and children’s books. Her other translated children’s books include The Cool Nguni series
by Maryanne and Shayle Bester and Desmond Tutu’s God’s Dream.

River, friendship, adventure, anthropomorphism

Spring has come to the forest. Mole, while doing the cleaning, meets Water Rat. They become close friends and begin to live together at the River Bank. Staying at Rat’s house, Mole gets to know several friends in the new surroundings: Toad, Badger, Otter ... Together they go through many adventures on the quiet River Bank, never forgetting that the dangerous, but beautiful, Wild Wood is nearby and beyond it lies the whole Wide World. The book uses humour and lyricism to tell us the stories of Mole, Rat, Badger and Toad and the adventures they share together.

Miren Arratibel was born in Donostia in 1969. She has worked as a translator, editor and proofreader for several institutions, publishing houses and literary organisations. Her best known translations for children and young adults include Hemeretzi ipuin (Collected Works, 19 Tales by H.C. Andersen), Gizon Ikusezina (The Invisible Man by H.G. Wells), Perfumea (Das Parfum by Patrick Süskind), and Greg, Gizajo baten egunkaria (Diary of a Wimpy Kid by Jeff Kinney).

War, flight, inhumanity, father/daughter

Ela’s father is a pastry chef but is called up to fight in the war. Luckily he has a handbook entitled “All a soldier needs to know”, which explains how to disguise yourself as a bush to mislead the enemy! So Ela doesn’t have to worry about him. As the war continues, Ela has to make a long journey to her mother, who has been living in a neighbouring country for a long time. She has been away so long that Ela knows very little about her. She makes the long journey with many setbacks and unexpected events on the way. When she finally crosses the border, she realises that she cannot find the piece of paper with her mother’s address and she cannot speak the language in the new country. But Ela never gives up. With humour and the disarming logic of a child, the author delves into the absurdity of war.

Caroline de Jong and Gustau Raluy work as a team to translate children's books from Dutch to Catalan. Their best known translations include Carta al rei (Brief voor de koning by Tonke Dragt), El senyor Finney i el món de cap per avall (Mr Finney en de wereld op zijn kop by Laurentine van Oranje & Sieb Posthuma), Que no passi (Een kleine kans by Marjolijn Hof), Atreveix-te amb tres (Durf voor drie by Bart Moeyaert), L’enigma dels quadres robats (De kunstrijder by Jan Terlouw) and La caiguda (Vallen by Anne Provoost). Caroline de Jong also translates from French, English, Spanish and Dutch. Gustau Raluy translates from French, Italian, Spanish and Catalan, educational books, fiction and classics.
In Bisa Bea, Bisa Bel an image unleashes an imaginative waterfall with words. Isabel finds a photo of her great-grandmother Bea and begins a dialogue that leads Isabel to understand her family and herself. Another girl appears in the story, Isabel’s great-granddaughter. The three women represent three moments in time – past, present and future. In this story memory acts as a revelation in order to find freedom.

August Pullman was born with a facial disfigurement that, up until now, has prevented him from going to a mainstream school. Starting fifth grade at Beecher Prep, he wants nothing more than to be treated as an ordinary child – but his new classmates cannot get past Auggie’s extraordinary face. La lección de August begins from Auggie’s point of view, but soon switches to include his classmates, his sister, her boyfriend and others. These perspectives converge into a portrait of one community’s struggle with empathy, compassion and acceptance.

Diego de los Santos was born in 1974 in Spain. He has been a prolific literary translator for 15 years and has translated novels, graphic novels and children’s books. He has covered a wide variety of genres, including fantasy, sci-fi, young adult, romance, mystery and thriller, as well as children’s books. He has translated bestselling authors such as Neil Gaiman (The Sandman), Suzanne Collins (Books 3–5 of the Gregor series), Alan Moore (The League of Extraordinary Gentlemen), James Patterson (I Funny), Tad Williams (The Dirty Streets of Heaven), Maggie Stiefvater (Forever), and Rosie Banks (the Secret Kingdom series).
Oceanen vid vägens ände is a book that employs magic and terror to tell a fairy tale about unprotected childhood. It is a beautiful and horrible fantasy about children's vulnerability, ephemeral memory and the depth of the ocean. It is also about evil and horror and the strongest of friendships. A man has returned to his childhood haunts. He is sitting on a bench, looking at the sky reflected in the duck pond. Or is it a regular pond? Did someone drown there? The little pond is in fact an ocean. That is what his best friend, Lettie, used to say. Now he remembers and the past is suddenly a presence. Leandoer's translation of The Ocean at the End of the Road is a veritable masterpiece, not only because every word is just right, but also because of the rhythm, the atmosphere, the innovative thinking and the magic.

Kristoffer Leandoer, born in Stockholm in 1962, is a writer, translator (of both English and French) and literary critic, as well as a poet and musician. He made his debut as a poet in 1987 and attracted attention with a collection of horror short stories Svarta speglar (Black Mirrors, 1994) and in 2010 his novel Mask was nominated for the August award. He writes for adults, children and young adults. In his translations he has a special eye for fantasy, death and other worlds. He received the Kerstin M Lundberg radio journalism award in 2013, and in the same year the Jacques Outin award for his translations from French into Swedish.

All is peaceful and calm in outer space, until a band of space pirates steals the moon! Will Intergalactic Ed and his faithful cat, Sputnik, find a way to release it? Or will they end up walking the Space Plank?

Hagar Ali is a freelance translator from English into Arabic and vice versa as well as an early learning educator. She graduated in English from the School of Alalsun at the Ain Shams University in Cairo, Egypt and received a translation diploma from the American University in Cairo. She has translated many instructional books for young learners and teenagers for the publishing house, Nahdet Misr, as well as stories for Hudhud Publishing. She has also done translations for the Department of Culture and Information in Sharjah.
Anton is not happy. He has come to spend the summer with his grandparents at a holiday camp. This is bad enough, but to discover there is no swimming pool is a disaster. Instead there is a lake – a lake full of muddy water and slimy weeds. Anton is definitely not swimming in that, even if others are. In fact, his summer has taken a dive – until Anton makes an unusual friend – and friendship can change everything. Anton and Piranha is a lively, funny story about learning to fit in and about the power of friendship – whoever the friend may be. Anton is a real individual with a distinctive voice and young readers will relate to him and his predicament. The original novel Anton taucht ab won the Deutscher Jugendliteraturpreis in 2011.

Chantal Wright was born in Manchester and studied at the University of Cambridge and the University of East Anglia. She is a translator of literary texts from German and French into English and teaches literary translation at the University of Warwick. Her work encompasses both adult and children’s books. She has translated the works of Andreas Steinhoefel (Dirk und ich/My brother and I), Cornelia Funke (Prinzessin Isabella/Princess Pigsty and Kaepten Knitterbart und seine Bande/Pirate Girl) and Zoran Drvenkar (Sag mir was du Siehst/Tell me what you see). Her translation, The Pasta Detectives (Rico, Oskar und die Tieferschatten) by Andreas Steinhoefel, won the 2011 NASSEN Inclusive Children’s Book Award and was shortlisted for the 2011 Marsh Award. Anton and Piranha was shortlisted for the Marsh Award in 2015.

Mikis lives in Greece on the island of Corfu in a small village where everyone knows each other. One day on his way home from school as Mikis passes the cafe where his grandfather and the other men of the village spend time, his grandfather calls out that he has a surprise for him at home. Mikis races through the narrow streets of the village to his grandparents’ home where he discovers a young donkey waiting for him. And so begins their great friendship – an oddity in a place where donkeys have always been seen as beasts of burden. From his first act of friendship – allowing the donkey to help choose her own name – to the grand adventures that follows, Mikis gradually changes his grandparents’ attitude towards animals. At the same time, Mikis comes to understand that his grandparents’ attitudes towards animals are those characteristics of a certain generation.

British-born Laura Watkinson is a multi-linguist, translating Dutch, Italian and German into English. She studied languages at St. Anne’s College, Oxford and literary translation at the University College, London. She began her career by translating publicity materials for the Dutch Foundation for Literature. She now lives in Amsterdam and is founder of the Dutch chapter of the Society of Children’s Book Writers and Illustrators. She has become a sought-after translator who has won many prizes including Batchelder Awards for Soldier Bear and Mikis and the Donkey, both by Bibi Dumon Tak. For Laura Watkinson, translating is not about substituting one word for another; it is about recreating the story anew so that it draws in readers and expresses exactly what the original work did.
